f
Z
7817
N420s
059:2

REF

FOR REFERENCE

NOT TO BE TAKEN FROM THIS ROOM

NEW YORK.

Selected List

CURRENT BOOKS AND PAMPHLETS

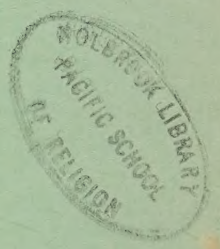
(Items Published in 1957, 1958, and 1959 Only)

Added to the Collection of

THE MISSIONARY RESEARCH LIBRARY

Between July 1, 1959 and December 31, 1959

Selected List Series No. 14



3041 Broadway
New York 27, New York

68532

f
Z
7817
N420s
1959:2
Ref.

New York (City) Missionary research library

F O R E W O R D

The SELECTED LIST OF CURRENT BOOKS AND PAMPHLETS is published twice a year. The present issue includes accessions from July through December, 1959. Only titles published since the summer of 1956 are listed. The more important pamphlets are given a place, and a few selected government documents. Periodicals and reports of organizations are not listed.

Books in the SELECTED LIST may be borrowed, through inter-library loan, from the Missionary Library if not available in a nearby library; however, books cannot be sent overseas. The Missionary Research Library does not act as agent for purchasing books. Orders should be sent direct to the publishers or through book agencies. In the case of foreign publications, the price is given in the currency of the country of publication whenever this information is readily available. Prices listed for United Nations publications are United States prices since these publications may be obtained at the International Documents Service of Columbia University Press in New York City. Friendship Press is the agent for Edinburgh House and the World Dominion Press. Any book agent or large library can indicate where foreign publications may be ordered in this country. The addresses of publishers may be obtained by consulting the Cumulative Book Index (C. B. I.) or at any book agency.

The Library of the Union Theological Seminary, adjoining the Missionary Research Library, acquires many other books in the field of religions, which are available to readers at the Missionary Research Library.

The staff of the Missionary Research Library cooperates in the selection of books for the Library and in the preparation of book annotations. The special fields and interests of the Missionary Research Library determine the choice of books: the theory, history and methods of missions; non-Christian religions; studies of areas, countries and peoples; anthropology and ethnology; international affairs and world peace. We would appreciate suggestions of significant books which have been omitted in our selection.

OLBROOK LIBRARY
PACIFIC SCHOOL
RELIGION

Frank W. Price
Director

March, 1960

Additional copies of this Selected List and of previous semi-annual and annual Selected Lists may be purchased at fifty cents each. Payment with order will be appreciated.

MISSIONARY RESEARCH LIBRARY
3041 Broadway
New York 27, New York

Price: Fifty Cents

VIII. SOCIAL AND POLITICAL SCIENCE 38

IX. ANTHROPOLOGY AND RELATED SUBJECTS 41

X. THEOLOGICAL, WORSHIP AND DEVOTIONAL 42

XI. PUBLICATIONS OF THE MISSIONARY RESEARCH LIBRARY 43

I. H I S T O R Y

A. HISTORY OF MISSIONS

1. Delacroix, Monseigneur S., ed.
Les Missions Modernes (XVIIe et XVIIIe siecles). (Histoire Universelle des Missions Catholiques). Paris, Librairie Grund, 1957. 421 p. $16.00 Volume II of an encyclopedic history of Roman Catholic missions: papal policies and actions, missionary expansion by areas and countries, biographies of missionaries. The work of many scholars, based upon extensive research. This volume covers modern missions of the 17th and 18th centuries. French language.

2. ------.
Les Missions Contemporaines (1800-1957). (Histoire Universelle des Missions Catholiques). Paris, Librairie Grund, 1957. 446 p. $16.00 Volume III of the same history, covering 1800 to 1957: the policies of successive popes, missionary expansion on all continents including Europe and North America. Extensive sources and good bibliographies.

3. Gray, John.
Early Portuguese Missionaries in East Africa. London, Macmillan, 1958. 53 p. 2/- Early Portuguese attempts, in the 16th to 18th centuries, to plant Christianity on the East Africa coast; a brief historical sketch based on old records and secondary sources.

B. HISTORY OF MISSIONARY SOCIETIES

4. Beers, G. Pitt.
Ministry to Turbulent America; a History of the American Baptist Home Mission Society Covering Its Fifth Quarter Century, 1932-1957. Chicago, Judson Press, 1957. 262 p. $2.50 This informative book includes a chapter on American Indians and two chapters on missionary work in Latin America (Mexico, Central America, Cuba and Puerto Rico).

5. Clarke, W. K. Lowther.
A History of the S. P. C. K. London, S. P. C. K., 1959. 244 p. 21/ The story of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, organized in 1698 - its early charity schools, the East Indian Mission launched in 1719, production of Christian literature in England and overseas, work among emigrants. Told in popular form, by the former secretary of the S. P. C. K.

6. Conn, Charles W.
Like a Mighty Army Moves the Church of God. Cleveland, Tenn., Church of God Publishing House, 1955. 380 p. $5.00 Stirring history of the Church of God, 1886-1955, with its strong missionary outreach to all the world. (See also the history of a half century of foreign missions, Where the Saints Have Trod, 1959).

7. ------.
Where the Saints Have Trod; a History of Church of God Missions. Cleveland, Tenn., Pathway Press, 1959. 312 p. $3.95 The Church of God, born in 1886, began its missionary work in 1909. This is a well-written survey of a half century of missions in Latin America, the Caribbean area, Asia, Africa, the Middle East, Europe and the Pacific isles.

Digitized by the Internet Archive
in 2025

https://archive.org/details/international-bulletin-of-mission-research_1959_2

8. DeJong, Peter Y.
Obeying the Great Commission; a Study Manual on Foreign Missions. Grand Rapids, Mich., Baker Book House, 1959. 124 p. $1.00 Written especially for the Christian Reformed Church in America; chapters on missions in general and then on the denomination's own missionary enterprise since 1857; questions for discussion and suggestions for action.

9. Dike, K. Onwuka.
Origins of the Niger Mission 1841-1891. Ibadan, Nigeria, Ibadan University Press, 1957. 21 p. 1/ A paper read at a missionary conference, dealing with the first half century of the Niger C. M. S. Mission in Nigeria. Based upon careful research.

10. Ellsworth, S. George.
Zion in Paradise. Logan, Utah, Faculty Association, Utah State University, 1959. 36 p. A study from original sources of the first Mormon missions to Polynesia, 1844-1852, the difficulties experienced and the limited successes achieved.

11. Keysser, Christian.
Gottesfeuer; Kurzgeschichte der Neuguineamission. Neuendettelsau, Freimund-Verlag, 1959. 62 p. DM 1.50 "God's Fire; A Brief History of the New Guinea Mission," resulting now in the young Papua Church in New Guinea with a membership of 160,000.

12. McGlone, Vincent J.
Fruits of Toil, a History of the Catholic Church in the District of the Wairarapa, New Zealand, 1845-1956. Carterton, N. Z., Roydhouse & Son, 1957. 248 p. £2/7/9 A detailed history of the Roman Catholic Church in eastern New Zealand, from its beginnings over a century ago to the present time. Special efforts were made to reach new immigrants and the native Maoris.

13. McIntire, Robert Leonard. Portrait of Half a Century; Fifty Years of Presbyterianism in Brazil. Ph.D. dissertation, Princeton Theological Seminary, mimeographed, 1959. 432 p. Extraordinarily fine research by a Presbyterian missionary: three chapters of historical and social background and then a detailed, well-organized narrative of the first half century of Presbyterian missions and church life in Brazil. A most timely study as the centenary of Brazilian Presbyterianism is being observed.

14. Sease, Rosalyn S.
Missions Today. (Rev. ed.) Philadelphia, Muhlenberg Press, 1954. 96 p. $.75 Brief and interesting survey of Lutheran mission fields throughout the world, with questions for study and discussion.

15. Thomas, Winburn T.
Protestant Beginnings in Japan; the First Three Decades 1859-1889. Rutland, Vt., Charles E. Tuttle, 1959. 258 p. $3.00 (paperbound); $4.00 (hardbound) Protestant Christianity entered Japan in 1859 but not until 1883 did it begin to take root in Japanese culture; then for seven years it enjoyed phenomenal popularity and growth. Dr. Thomas' published thesis is a masterly study of this significant period, based upon wide reading in Japanese and western sources. An important contribution to missionary and church history.

16. Van der Linde, J. M.
Het Visioen van Herrnhut en het Apostolaat der Moravische Broeders in Suriname 1735-1863. Paramaribo, Netherlands, C. Kersten, 1956. 264 p. "The vision of Herrnhut and the apostolate of the Moravian brothers in Surinam," by the noted Dutch scholar of Utrecht. A fine history based on extensive research and dealing with all aspects of this early missionary effort.

17. Warren, M. A. C., comp.
Missionary Commitments of the Anglican Communion. London, S. P. C. K., 1957. 39 p. 12/6 Written by Canon Max Warren as a preparatory paper for the Lambeth Conference of 1958. A thorough and illuminating survey, important source of information on Anglican and Episcopal missions.

C. CHURCH HISTORY

18. Carlson, Stan W., and Soroka, Leonid.
Faith of Our Fathers; the Eastern Orthodox Religion. Minneapolis, The Olympic Press, 1954. Rev. ed. 1958. 176 p. $2.50 A comprehensive, enlightening reference book on "Orthodoxy," history, architecture, liturgy, festivals and feast days, doctrines, church calendar, etc. Approved by the Primate of Russian Orthodox Greek Catholic Church of North America.

19. Dawley, Powel Mills.
The Episcopal Church and Its Work. Greenwich, Conn., The Seabury Press, 1955. 310 p. $3.00 Volume VI in the Church's Teaching Series, dealing with the heritage, structure, and activity of the Episcopal Church. Chapter 8 is on "Overseas Missions," Chapter 9 on "Missionary Work At Home."

20. Easton, Wilfred.
No Harbour. London, Cargate Press, 1959. 128 p. 6/- The unfinished journey of Methodism in the Caribbean after two centuries of turbulent history. Interesting sketch enriched by personal experiences.

21. Grant, John Webster. God's People in India. Toronto, The Ryerson Press, 1959. 112 p. $3.00 The author, a Rhodes scholar, gives impressions of the church in India based on a year's visit in 1957-58. His comments are intelligent, thoughtful and thorough, yet informed throughout with a warm evangelical faith. A helpful map of modern India, but no index.

22. Hermelink, Jan.
Kirchen in der Welt. Stuttgart, Bruckhardthaus und Kreuzverlag, 1959. 238 p. $9.80 This is the third volume of a nine volume series in German on the general theme: Christians in the world. It is actually a study of the kinds of diversity in which the church finds itself today. The first part studies the great division caused by the Reformation; the second part examines the Orthodox Church, Church of Rome, Anglican Church, Free Churches, some smaller sects, and the Church of South India as an example of a modern Union-Church. A third section considers the roots, development and future of the modern ecumenical movement.

23. Hollis, A. M., ed.
Ten Years Young; The Addresses, Bible Studies and a Sermon delivered to the Synod of the Church of South India, Nagercoil, January 1958 together with Resolutions on the Main theme. Madras, The Christian Literature Society, 1958. 53 p. Rs. 1.25 Serious, searching self-examination on the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the United Church of South India; and resolutions passed by the Synod.

24. Pakenham-Walsh, H.
Lights and Shades of Christendom. (Vol. I, to A.D. 1000). Madras, S. P. C. K. and The Christian Literature Society, 1955. 340 p. Rs. 8 Church history written especially for theological students in India; the first thousand years of Christianity. Volumes 2 and 3 were published in 1950 and 1957.

25. Parker, John A.
A Church in the Sun; the Story of the Rise of Methodism in the Island of Grenada, West Indies. London, Cargate Press, 1959. 109 p. 4/6 The story of churches planted by the Wesleyan Methodist Missionary Society in the West Indies and especially of the witness of lay Christians as they went from island to island; a vital corner of world Methodism.

26. Winehouse, Irwin.
The Assemblies of God. New York, Vantage Press, 1959. 224 p. $3.75 Informative story of the largest Pentecostalist denomination in America - its history since 1914, organization, rapid growth, main tenets and practices, and world-wide missionary program.

27. Yanagita, Tomonobu.
A Short History of Christianity in Japan. Sendai, Japan, Seisho Tosho Kankokai, 1957. 100 p. Y180 A scholar of the Christian Reformed Church in Japan is the author of this brief survey of Christian church history in Japan since 1549, written from an ultra-conservative theological viewpoint. Critical of the Kyodan and N. C. C. Translated from Japanese into English.

28. Young, John M. L.
The Two Empires in Japan. Tokyo, Bible Times Press, 1958. 234 p. Y400 or $1.25 The writer, president of Japan Christian Theological Seminary, interprets the four-century history of Christianity in Japan as a continuing struggle between the true Church and the polytheistic State. As a fundamentalist missionary he finds a large section of the Christian movement modernistic and compromising in its attitude to Shinto worship and national idolatry, and urges in this booklet of "Centennial Reflections" a strong stand for religious liberty.

D. ECUMENICAL MOVEMENT; CHURCH UNION AND COOPERATION

29. Hebert, Gabriel.
God's Kingdom and Ours. London, SCM Press, 1959. 192 p. 10/6 The author, Anglican scholar and preacher of Australia, looks at Christian unity and the ecumenical church in the setting of Biblical and liturgical studies, with keen awareness of the evangelistic situation and problem in Asia and Africa. Some of his judgments on Christian missions are one-sided and overly severe.

30. Hermelink, Jan and Margull, Hans Jochen.
Basileia; Tribute to Walter Freytag. Stuttgart, Evang. Missionsverlag, 1959. 515 p. A remarkable symposium of fifty-one essays by "scholars and churchmen, missionaries and statesmen" of the world-wide Church, honoring Dr. Walter Freytag, German missionary leader and author, on his sixteith birthday. The papers, which are of a high order, cover a variety of subjects. Essential book for the missionary and ecumenical library.

31. Orchard, R. K.
Out of Every Nation; a Discussion of the Internationalizing of Missions. (I. M. C. Research Pamphlets No. 7). London, SCM Press, 1959. 77 p. The history of "international missions," underlying issues and practical problems requiring decision by mission boards, churches and international Christian agencies; proposals for next steps. A keen, forward-looking paper.

32. Suzuki, Paul M.
Sekai Kyokai Ondo Rinen to Jissen (The Idea & Practice of the Ecumenical Movement). Tokyo, Y. M. C. A. Alliance Press, 1958. 223 p. $.64 History of the ecumenical movement and an interpretation of its significance and prospects, from the viewpoint of a Japanese Christian scholar. Written in Japanese.

33. Visser 't Hooft, W. A.
The Pressure of Our Common Calling. Garden City, N. Y., Doubleday, 1959. 90 p. $2.50 A re-writing of the 1957 Taylor lectures at Yale Divinity School, the book is an attempt to formulate a theology of the ecumenical movement, which means a study of how unity grows through the divine call to witness, service, and fellowship in Christ. To be used as a working document by World's Student Christian Federation in preparing for a conference on Life and Mission of the Church in 1960.

34. Yoder, John Howard.
The Ecumenical Movement and the Faithful Church. Scottdale, Pa., Mennonite Publishing House, 1958. 43 p. $.50 A brief survey of various movements and organizations interested in Christian unity, and an evaluation of them with particular reference to the Anabaptist-Mennonite heritage. A strong, thoughtful, irenic paper, ending with a plea for inter-church conversations.

E. ROMAN CATHOLIC MISSIONS

35. Le siege apostolique et les missions; textes et documents instruction de 1659 Leon XIII - Saint Pie X - Benoit XV - Pie XI - S. S. Pie XII. Fascicules I, II. Paris, Union Missionaire du Clerge, 1956. I, 145 p.; II, pp. 146-287. $1.40 Sixty-five Papal documents - encyclicals, discourses, messages, letters, etc. - dealing with the world mission of the Roman Church, from 1659 to 1954. French language.

36. Meyer, Bernard F.
The Way to Happiness; a Missionary Manual of Catholic Doctrine. Maryknoll, N. Y., Maryknoll, 1958. 320 p. $2.00 Roman Catholic textbook for catechists and particularly lay volunteers, which can be translated or adapted into various languages. It covers Catholic doctrine and practice and may be used also for self-study. Revealing exposition of Roman Catholic missionary teaching which Protestant leaders would do well to study.

37. Miguel, Florencio.
Accion Misionera. Madrid, Coculsa, 1955. 286 p. A selection of articles written during the years 1950 to 1954 by the brilliant young editor of Missiones Catolicas, dealing with various aspects and problems of Roman Catholic missions. Ultra-conservative theology.

38. Pelikan, Jaroslav.
The Riddle of Roman Catholicism. N. Y., Abingdon, 1959. 272 p. $4.00 An intelligent, well-informed discussion of the relation between Protestant and Catholic belief. The author defends the "tragic necessity of the Reformation," but believes that today both Catholicism and Protestantism have a function in Christendom and explores the possibility of a re-union that would not be an abject surrender for either side. Full of fresh and unusual insights on the ecumenical problem of the future.

39. Brásio, António, ed.
Monumenta missionaria africana; África ocidental (1342-1499). Second Series, vol. I. Lisbon, Agência Geral do Ultramar, 1958. 758 p. 4.800 It. Lira Documents relating to early Catholic missions in western Africa. The four volumes of the first series covered the period 1467-1599; this first volume of the second series provides supplementary material from 1342 to 1499. Mostly in Portuguese; a few documents in Latin.

40. Geaney, Dennis J.
Christians in a Changing World. Chicago, Fides Publishers Assn., 1959. 180 p. $3.95 An appeal to Roman Catholics to "abandon forms that time has outmoded for new techniques that our social conditions require," by an Augustinian priest. Strong emphasis on the importance of the lay apostolate and Catholic action.

See also: 1, 2, 12, 80, 288.

II. B I O G R A P H Y

A. MISSIONARIES

41. Anson, Peter F.
Abbot Extraordinary; a Memoir of Aelred Carlyle Monk and Missionary 1874-1955. N. Y., Sheed and Ward, 1958. 310 p. $4.00 Memoirs of Aelred Carlyle, visionary English monk and a pioneer-adventurer. For thirty years he was a diocesan priest in British Columbia, first an Anglican and then a Roman Catholic priest.

42. Bauer, Evelyn.
Through Sunlight and Shadow. Scottdale, Pa., Herald Press, 1959. 221 p. $2.95 Mrs. Bauer, a Mennonite missionary to Madha Pradesh, India, was stricken with polio. This moving autobiography reveals her beautiful and courageous spirit.

43. Canfield, Carolyn L.
One Vision Only. Chicago, Moody Press, 1959. 191 p. $2.95 The story of a brave and devoted China Inland Mission missionary from Canada who "threw away her life" in the mountains of southwest Yunnan and in Thailand and found it in glorious service to the Chinese people. Told by a missionary friend and through Isobel Kuhn's own writings.

44. Canzoneri, Antonina.
Letter Home. Nashville, Broadman Press, 1959. 63 p. $1.50 A Southern Baptist missionary nurse to Africa, with a real gift of poetic writing, is the author of this collection of sensitive home letters in prose and verse.

45. Duncan, Sylvia and Peter.
Bonganga; Experiences of a Missionary Doctor. London, Odhams Press, 1958. 240 p. 21/ Dr. S. G. Browne, English Baptist medical missionary has built up an extraordinarily fine hospital and system of village clinics at Yokusu on the Congo River. His experiences of two decades of medical service including a successful fight against leprosy and "river blindness" are described in this fascinating biographical story. The modernization of the Belgian Congo is somewhat deplored in the closing chapters.

46. Englehert, Omer. Benjamin T. Crawford, tr.
The Hero of Molokai; Father Damien, Apostle of the Lepers. Derby, N. Y., Daughters of St. Paul, 1955. 364 p. $3.00 A Roman Catholic biography of the famous Father Damien, apostle to the lepers of Molokai in the Hawaiian Islands. The writer gives him high praise but deals also with the controversies in which Father Damien was involved during his lifetime.

47. Hitt, Russell T.
Jungle Pilot; Life and Witness of Nate Saint. N. Y., Harper, 1959. 303 p. $3.75 Story of the airpilot and mechanic of Operation Auca, the missionary group which attempted to enter the dangerous Auca area and was killed in 1956. Material gathered from Nate Saint's own journal and the reports of family and friends. Fine missionary biography.

48. Keys, Clara Evans.
We Pioneered in Portuguese East Africa; a Methodist Missionary's Memoirs of Planting Christian Civilization in Mozambique. N. Y., Exposition Press, 1959. 89 p. $3.00 In the form of letters to her granddaughter, Mrs. Keys, an American Methodist missionary, tells about her 46 years of arduous service in what is now Mozambique. A devoted spirit shines through the pedestrian style.

49. Kik, Richard. Tr. by Carrie Bettelini.
With Schweitzer in Lambaréné. Philadelphia, The Christian Education Press, 1959. 87 p. $2.00 Intimate and somewhat romantic short biography of Schweitzer, by a friend for thirty years. Translated from the German. Good map and illustrations.

50. Oelschner, Walter.
Landung in Osu; das Leben des Andreas Riis dür Westafrika. Stuttgart, Evang. Missionsverlag G M B H, 1959. 223 p. n. p. Landing in Osu, (Ghana). Biography of the pioneer Basel missionary Andreas Riis (1804-1854), who spent over twenty years in the former Gold Coast.

51. Rios, Eduardo Enrique.
Life of Fray Antonio Margil O. F. M. Tr. and rev. by Benedict Leutenegger. Washington, D. C., Academy of American Franciscan History, 1959. 159 p. $5.00 An official Catholic biography of a seventeenth century Spanish Franciscan missionary who is associated with founding the Mission College in the New World. His work in Mexico, Texas, Guatamala, Peru and other places is described in detail. The account ends with his death in 1726 after forty-three years of work in America and the step toward canonization in 1836 when the Pope declared that Antonio Margil exhibited the cardinal and theological virtues "in a heroic degree."

52. Schapera, I., ed.
David Livingstone Family Letters. v. 1, 1841-48. v. 2, 1849-56. London, Chatto & Windus, 1959. v. 1, 266 p. v. 2, 320 p. 60/ A unique publishing event: collection of 115 letters from Livingstone to his family, written between 1840 and 1856, and gathered today from many sources; the majority of them have not been published before. Edited with introduction and notes by the professor of anthropology at the University of London. Should be on every Livingstone shelf.

53. Schweitzer, Albert.
The Light Within Us. N. Y., The Philosophical Library, 1959. 58 p. $2.75 A fine selection of nearly one hundred quotations from Schweitzer's own writings, revealing his basic philosophy and faith and the beauty of his inner spirit.

54. Sharp, Arthur F.
The Wings of the Morning. (2 vol.) London, H. H. Greaves, 1957. Vol. 1, 230 p.; vol. 2, 87 p. 7/6 Reminiscences of two decades of missionary service in Singapore and Sarawak (Borneo), at the beginning of the 20th century. The author became Vicar-General of the Anglican Diocese of Sarawak; he was forced by illness to retire to a pastorate in England. Volume 2 includes supplementary material of a more personal nature.

55. Simon, John Marie.
Bishop for the Hottentots: African Memories 1882-1909. N. Y., Benziger Brothers, 1959. 235 p. $3.75 Bishop Simon of the Congregation of the Oblates of St. Francis de Sales narrates, with zest, humor and religious devotion, interesting experiences of twenty-seven years of missionary service among the Hottentots of South-West Africa. He lived on, after writing these memoirs, to celebrate a half century of work in Africa and to see a Roman Catholic community of nearly 25,000.

56. Smith, Oswald J.
David Brainerd: His Message for Today. London, Marshall, Morgan & Scott, 1956. 95 p. $1.25 Selections from the diary of David Brainerd (1718-1747), impassioned young missionary to the American Indians. Edited, with introduction, by the pastor of the mission-minded People's Church in Toronto.

57. Stewart, I. R. Govan.
The Love That Was Stronger. London, Lutterworth Press, 1958. 96 p. 5/6 Biography of Lilias Trotter (1853-1928), the pioneer missionary from England who founded the Algiers Mission Band and devoted her life to the people of that Muslim country.

58. Urquhart, Clara.
With Doctor Schweitzer in Lambaréné. London, George G. Harrap, 1957. 62 p. 10/6 An intimate portrait of Dr. Schweitzer and his "family," illustrated with some splendid photographs. By a longtime admirer of "that rock-like man, who seems to know exactly where he is heading in a world which has lost its way."

59. Wilson, Dorothy Clarke.
Dr. Ida; the Story of Dr. Ida Scudder of Vellore. N. Y., McGraw-Hill, 1959. 358 p. $5.95 Beautifully written biography of one of the very great medical missionaries of our time, founder of the Vellore Christian Medical College, grand-daughter of the first American missionary physician to serve in India. A profoundly moving story, written for the general public.

B. NATIONAL CHRISTIANS

60. Lin Yutang.
From Pagan to Christian. Cleveland, World Publishing Co., 1959. 251 p. $3.50 The internationally famous Chinese philosopher and author writes an autobiography of his religious life, from childhood years as the son of a Protestant minister through a long period of agnosticism and rationalism to his present Christian faith. The conclusion is warmly human and humanistic in a Christian way but not in any sense a theological statement.

61. Seng, Go Puan.
The Hour Had Come; How Faith Brought Us through Peril. Grand Rapids, Mich., Douma Publications, 1958. 228 p. $3.50 The exciting and seemingly miraculous experiences of a Filipino Christian, Go Puan Seng and his family during the years of the Japanese military occupation. The author is now editor of a Chinese newspaper in Manila and a prominent Presbyterian churchman.

62. Smith, Daniel.
Bakht Singh of India: A Prophet of God. Washington, D. C., International Students Press, 1959. 88 p. $1.00 Stirring story of one of India's premier Gospel evangelists, who calls the converted into indigenous "assemblies" separate from missions and the established churches.

63. Trout, Jessie M.
Kagawa, Japanese Prophet. (World Christian Books No. 30). London, Lutterworth Press, 1959. 80 p. 2/6 A brief biographical sketch of Dr. Kagawa, in simple English, and some moving extracts from his writings, many of them translated for the first time by Kagawa's former secretary, Jessie Trout.

C. GENERAL

64. Gandhi, Mahatma.
All Men Are Brothers; Life and Thoughts of Mahatma Gandhi As Told in His Own Words. N. Y., Columbia University Press, 1958. 196 p. $4.75 Gandhi's writings woven into the pattern of a self-revealing intellectual and spiritual autobiography. A choice UNESCO publication.

65. Huxley, Elspeth.
The Flame Trees of Thika; Memories of an African Childhood. N. Y., William Morrow, 1959. 288 p. $4.00 A British family pioneered in the wild Kikuyu country of Kenya, becoming part of the small community of settlers and also of the native African scene. A true and enchanting story flowering from the memories of the young daughter.

66. Kenworthy, Leonard S.
Twelve Citizens of the World. Garden City, N. Y., Doubleday, 1953. 286 p. $3.50 Biographies of Ralph Bunche, Pierre Ceresole, Mahatma Gandhi, Toyohiko Kagawa, Fridtjof Nansen, John Boyd Orr, Eleanor Roosevelt, Domingo Sarmiento, Albert Schweitzer, Sun Yat-sen, Arturo Toscanini, Mathilda Wrede. Written in readable, popular style.

67. Nehru, Jawaharlal.
Jawaharlal Nehru's Speeches. Vol. 3. Delhi, Publications Division, Government of India, 1958. 527 p. $5.00 The third volume covers the period 1953 to 1957: speeches on a wide range of subjects with accent on economic development. One address is on "Buddha's Teaching Today."

68. Siao, Yu (Hsiao Yu). With a Foreword by Lin Yutang, Preface by Raymond F. Piper, and Historical Commentary and Notes by Robert C. North.
Mao Tse-tung and I were Beggars. Syracuse, Syracuse University Press, 1959. 266 p. $6.00 Siao-yu and Mao Tse-tung were boyhood friends and schoomates in Hunan Province. On a summer's excursion through the Hunan mountains they "begged" their way and began a series of long conversations on China's need for revolution and the future of the nation. All this, and many revealing episodes, are recorded in this fascinating book. Siao-yu broke with Mao at the time of the Communist Party organization in 1921.

III. THEORY AND PRINCIPLES OF MISSIONS; THEOLOGY OF MISSIONS

69. Morton, T. Ralph.
Community of Faith; the Changing Pattern of the Church's Life. N. Y., Association Press, 1954. 153 p. $2.50 A little book of great worth: the need for new patterns in Christian social and economic living seen upon the background of changing ideas and systems of church and community through Christian history. The author is one of the associate leaders of the Iona Community in Scotland.

70. Newbigin, Lesslie.
Die eine Kirche--das eine Evangelium--die eine Welt; die christliche Mission heute. Stuttgart, Evang. Missionsverlag, 1959. 53 p. n. p. German edition of "The World Mission Today - One Church, One Gospel, One World."

71. ------.
The Summons to Christian Mission To-Day. Reprinted from the April 1959 number of The International Review of Missions. N. Y., International Missionary Council, 1959. 13 p. Address given at the Annual Dinner of the North American Advisory Committee of the International Missionary Council, November 14, 1959.

72. Teinonen, Seppo A.
The Theological Basis of Gustav Warneck's Early Theory of Missions Summary. Helsinki, Finnish Society for Missionary Research, 1959. 263 p. A gifted young theologian and missionary scholar of Finland gives us this long-needed interpretation of Gustav Warneck's theory of missions "based upon his neo-pietistic theology of life" and analysis of the various influences upon his thought. Published in Finnish, with 20-page English summary.

73. ------.
Warneck-Tutkielmia. (Warneck-studien Zusammenfassung). Helsinki, Finnish Society for Missionary Research, 1959. 60 p. FM 400:-- Third booklet in a series on the missionary theology of Gustav Warneck. Finnish language, no English summary.

74. Warren, Max.
Challenge and Response; Six Studies in Missionary Opportunity. N. Y., Morehouse-Barlow Co., 1959. 148 p. $2.50 A series of six lectures on the theology of missions first delivered at the College of Preachers in Washington in Fall 1958. The book contains many valuable insights into both the contemporary missionary situation and the underlying meaning of the missionary movement. Short introduction by William Greighton.

75. West, Charles C.
Outside the Camp. Garden City, N. Y., Doubleday, 1959. 168 p. $1.65 An incisive and provocative study book for use by the Ecumenical Student Conference, Athens, Ohio, December 1959. The Christian student today between two worlds, as he is involved in the revolutionary insecurity of Asia and the mass culture of the West. The author is assistant director of the Ecumenical Institute in Switzerland.

IV. MISSIONARY METHODS

A. EVANGELISM AND CHURCH WORK; COMMUNICATION OF THE GOSPEL

76. A Guide to Study--Involvement in the Mission of the Church in the Whole World. N. Y., National Student Christian Federation, Commission on World Mission (Formerly Student Volunteer Movement), 1959. 19 p. 15¢ Guide to study of Outside the Camp, Charles West's book prepared for use at the Ecumenical Student Conference, Athens, Ohio, December 1959.

77. Forman, Charles W.
The Evangel in Today's World. Scarborough, Ontario, Department of Overseas Missions, Canadian Council of Churches, 1959. 23 p. Stimulating addresses by the professor of missions at Yale University, on "The evangelist, his training and his work," "The problem of materialism," and "The problem of resurgent religions." Mimeographed and paper bound.

78. Jocz, Jakob.
A Theology of Election; Israel and the Church. London, S. P. C. K., 1958. 227 p. 25s. A notable contribution to the theological literature of Jewish-Christian dialogue, by a Hebrew Christian scholar. Written with deep understanding of both Jewish and Christian faiths and of their connecting theme - "election."

79. Jones, E. Stanley.
Conversion. N. Y., Abingdon Press, 1959. 253 p. $3.25; $1.95 (paperbound.) A prolific religious author and well known Christian missionary gives a very readable account of the conversion experience which he holds is a necessity for all persons. Helpful chapters written in an easy style full of illustrations discuss the necessity and nature of conversion and its relations to conversation, health, religious education, and most important the Kingdom of God.

80. Lombardi, Richard. Tr. and condensed from the Italian.
Towards a New World. London, St. Paul Publications, 1958. 276 p. 18/-
Fr. Lombardi is a popular Roman Catholic evangelist who has preached to crowds in various countries of Europe, Latin America and Africa. This book interprets his "Movement for a better world" and "The crusade of love." Little attention is given to peculiar Catholic dogmas, except for the Papacy; strong social message.

81. Warren, Max.
Tell in the Wilderness. London, The Highway Press, 1959. 105 p. 2/6 Written as the CMS "Book of the Year," this is a message to all missionaries on the communication of the Gospel in our time -- searching, challenging, inspiring -- by the dean of missionary statemen in England. A fine book for devotional reading or group study.

B. CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

82. Brown, Leslie and Winifred.
The Christian Family. (World Christian Books No. 29). London, Lutterworth Press, 1959. 80 p. 2/6 By the Bishop of Uganda and his wife; a simple and helpful discussion of Christian family ideals and relationships, with illustrations from around the world.

83. Gaster, Gwen.
Our Blind Family. London, Highway Press, 1959. 63 p. 4/ An English woman who had worked with the blind for many years responds to the call from a small CMS school for the blind in Iran and here describes her experiences. An appealing story.

84. Harrison, M. H.
After Ten Years; a report on theological education in India. Nagpur, India, National Christian Council of India, 1957. 71 p. Re. 1/- A re-study of theological education in India ten years after the Ransom Report of 1945. By a special committee appointed by the Board of Theological Education of the National Christian Council of India.

C. CHRISTIAN LITERATURE AND LITERACY EDUCATION

85. Nishimura, Tei.
Namban Art. Bunko-Ku, Japan, Kodansha, 1958. 232 p. $30.00 Christian art in Japan, 1549-1639, reproductions of over two hundred paintings and other art objects; full descriptive text in the Japanese language. A beautiful and expensive volume.

86. Pike, Eunice V.
Words Wanted. Chicago, Moody Press, 1958. 159 p. $2.75 The author, sister of a director of Wycliffe Bible Translators, trained nurse and gifted linguist, spent thirteen years learning the language of the Mazatec tribe of mountainous Mexico, and translating the New Testament. She tells a thrilling story of identification with a neglected people and of Christian witness among them.

See also: 107.

D. AUDIO-VISUAL COMMUNICATIONS

87. Christian Art in India. Lucknow, The Commission on Christian Literature of the Methodist Church in Southern Asia, 1958. 51 p. $1.50 Colored photographs of twelve paintings by Indian Christian artists, selected from an exhibit at Lucknow in 1956, with commentaries on the pictures and the artists in Hindi and English.

88. Hero, Alfred O.
Mass Media and World Affairs. Boston, World Peace Foundation, 1959. 187 p. $1.50 A competent study of the effectiveness of U. S. mass media - books, magazines, newspapers, radio and television - on popular understanding of world affairs and increased participation in formulation of foreign policy.

89. Weiss, G. Christian.
On Understanding God's Program. Lincoln, Nebr., Back to the Bible Broadcast, 1952. 126 p. $.35 Radio talks by the Director of Missions in Back to the Bible Broadcast, including one on the present world need for Christian missions.

E. MEDICAL MISSIONS

90. Adolph, Paul E.
Missionary Health Manual. Chicago, Moody Press, [1954], revised edition, 1959. 144 p. Dr. Adolph has served well the missionary community everywhere by this up-to-date revision of his excellent popular booklet on missionary health, preventive medicine, first aid, drugs, etc. It should be in every missionary home and station.

91. Bolton, Ralph.
No More the Leper. London, Cargate Press, 1959. 46 p. 2/ A popular booklet on leprosy - the disease and its treatment, and the answer of English Methodist medical missions to the challenge of leprosy.

92. Brewster, Dorothy D. and Brewster, Harold N.
The Church and Medical Missions. N. Y., Board of Missions of the Methodist Church, 1959. 121 p. The why, where and how of American Methodist medical missions - in Africa, Asia, and Latin America, an evaluation of results and a look into the future. By a husband-wife missionary team.

93. Raaflaub, F., ed.
Assatzige werden rein; Dienst an Leprakranken in Kamerun. Basel, Evangelische Missionsgesellschaft, 1958. 28 p. Service of the Basel Mission to lepers in the Cameroons.

94. Wilkinson, A.
A Brief History of Nursing in India and Pakistan. Madras, The Trained Nurses' Association of India, 1958. 115 p. n. p. Historical sketch of nursing from early times, and the beginning of modern scientific nursing and preventive medicine, with descriptions of nurses' training schools including those established by Christian missions.

F. RURAL AND AGRICULTURAL MISSIONS

95. Ansley, Charles Coke.
The Role of Agriculture in the Missionary Enterprise. Decatur, Ga., Columbia Theological Seminary, 1959. 137 p. Master of Biblical Education thesis by a Southern Presbyterian missionary to Brazil. The role of agriculture in the life of churches and missions; agricultural service as compassion and witness; agriculture in the labors of great missionaries; a program of agricultural mission for Brazil; conclusions. A useful study for all mission fields.

96. Better Field Programs; a Manual of Objectives and Procedures. N. Y., Agricultural Missions. 36 p. $.25 This manual is the result of workshops held at Berea College and Tuskegee Institute in July 1959 with the use of a grant from the New World Foundation. Brief but helpful statements of the objectives, procedures, resources, and standards of evaluation for the agricultural missionary are included.

G. GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF MISSIONARY ACTIVITIES

H. ADMINISTRATION AND PROMOTION OF MISSIONS; TRAINING OF MISSIONARY PERSONNEL

I. OTHER METHODS AND PROBLEMS

97. The Christian Family in East Asia; Report of the Study and Training Institute held in Chiengmai, Thailand, February 1st to April 25th 1958. London, International Missionary Council, 1959. 81 p. Report of a unique experiment, a study and training institute on Christian marriage guidance and family life, held at Chiengmai Theological Seminary, February 1 to April 25, 1958. Written by the delegates. Foreword by Dr. and Mrs. David R. Mace. Summaries of discussions, syllabi for courses, book lists.

V. REFERENCE

A. MISSIONS

98. Pan American World Airways.
New Horizons; World Guide. Pan American's Travel Facts about 89 Countries. N. Y., Pan American, 1959. 576 p. $1.00 A unique, attractive pocket guidebook for the traveller by air; capsule information about countries, peoples, cities and customs around the world.

B. YEARBOOKS AND DIRECTORIES

99. Basic Facts and Figures; International Statistics Relating to Education, Culture and Mass Communication. Paris, UNESCO, 1958. 142 p. $2.00 The UNESCO publication contains 31 tables comprising statistics about education, culture, and mass media in the member nations of UNESCO. In the present edition figures are brought up-to-date to July 1958.

100. Chamberlain, Waldo; Hovet, Thomas, Jr.; Swift, Richard N., ed.
Annual Review of United Nations Affairs 1957-58. N. Y., Oceana Publications, 1959. 248 p. $6.00 This issue comprises statements made during 1957 and 1958 by international officials and representatives of governments about the economic and social work of the United Nations.

101. Demographic Yearbook 1958. Tenth Issue. Special Topic: Marriage and Divorce Statistics. N. Y., Statistical Office of the United Nations; Department of Economic and Social Affairs. 541 p. $8.00

102. The Indian Year Book of International Affairs 1958, Vol. VII. Madras, University of Madras, 1958. 445 p. Rs. 15 The 1958 edition contains fourteen informative articles of historical and current interest, treaties and legal decisions, book reviews, and an index.

103. Keyes, H. M. R., ed.
International Handbook of Universities 1959. Paris, The International Association of Universities, 1959. 338 p. $6.00 Provides information concerning colleges and universities in some 70 countries of Europe, Latin America, Asia, Africa, and Middle East (except those in the United Kingdom and the British Commonwealth). About 450 universities are described, 1,000 other higher educational institutions are listed briefly under each country. Statistics are for 1956-57. Not all church-related colleges are included.

C. BIBLIOGRAPHIES AND GENERAL

104. Brownlee, Margaret.
The Lives and Work of South African Missionaries: a Bibliography. University of Cape Town, School of Librarianship, 1952. 33 p. 5/ Mimeographed list of 190 biographical books about foreign missionaries in South Africa, Protestant and Roman Catholic, with index of names. The works of David Livingstone are not included.

105. Conover, Helen F., comp.
Nigerian Official Publications, 1869-1959: a Guide. Washington, D. C., Library of Congress, 1959. 153 p. Bibliography of 1204 items, dealing with the federal and regional governments of Nigeria over nearly a century. Good index.

106. Hazlewood, Arthur.
The Economics of 'Under-Developed' Areas, an Annotated Reading List of Books, Articles, and Official Publications. Second enlarged edition. London, Oxford University Press, 1959. 156 p. $1.40 Over one thousand items listed, dealing with economic needs and conditions in under-developed countries around the world. A very useful reading guide.

107. Nussbaum, Mary.
A Selected Bibliography for Literacy Workers (With Special Reference to Africa). Hartford, Conn., Kennedy School of Missions, 1958. 24 p. A mimeographed list of 175 entries, some annotated, plus a convenient page of addresses of institutions and publications concerned with literacy.

108. Peers, Edgar Allison; Barragán, José V.; Vinyals, Francesco; Mora, Jorge Arturo, ed.
Cassell's Spanish-English English-Spanish Dictionary. London, Cassell, 1959. 1477 p. 36/- First dictionary that includes not only classical Spanish but also the modern speech of regional dialects and local usages in South and Central America.

109. Special Libraries Directory of Greater New York. N. Y., Special Libraries Assn., N. Y. Chapter, 1959. $3.00 Contains 760 entries, including 25 religious libraries, with relevant information about each.

110. Starr, Edward C.
A Baptist Bibliography, Being a Register of Printed Material By and About Baptists Including Works Written Against the Baptists. Volume 6, Section D. Rochester, American Baptist Historical Society, 1959. 213 p. $5.00 Continuation of a massive project of the American Baptist Historical Society, that contains many items of foreign and home missions.

111. Union of International Associations.
Yearbook of International Organizations; Annuaire des Organisations Internationales 1958-59 (7th edition). Brussels, Palais d'Egmont, 1958. 1,269 p. $14.00 Lists 1,259 international organizations, 149 governmental, 1060 non-governmental.

VI. AREAS AND COUNTRIES: (1) GENERAL; (2) MISSIONS, CHURCHES

A. NORTH AMERICA

See also: 4, 56, 269, 299, 308.

B. THE CARIBBEAN ISLANDS AND THE GUIANAS

112. Cave, Hugh B.
The Cross on the Drum. Garden City, Doubleday, 1959. 333 p. $3.95 "An explosive, dramatic novel of Christianity and voodoo on a Caribbean island," depicting first the friendship and then the struggle between an intense young missionary and a high priest of vodum, which finally involved all the islanders.

113. Dale, George A.
Education in the Republic of Haiti. Washington, D. C., U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, 1959. 180 p. School administration, teacher training, and a description of all types of education being conducted in dominantly rural Haiti, including some important mission schools. A useful reference book containing much significant information.

114. Phillips, Ruby Hart.
Cuba; Island of Paradox. N. Y., McDowell, Obolensky, 1959. 433 p. $4.95 Mrs. Phillips, New York Times correspondent, narrates the somber story of Cuba's political dictatorships and strife since 1933, ending with the victory of revolutionist Fidel Castro. She sees "hurricane warnings over Latin America" and urges a "major change in American foreign policy."

See also: 20, 25, 251.

C. LATIN AMERICA

115. Adams, Richard N.
A Community in the Andes; Problems and Progress in Muquiyauyo. Seattle, University of Washington Press, 1959. 251 p. $4.75 A good anthropological study of a Peruvian highland town of Indians and Mestizos which has shown a progressive community spirit. Considerable attention is given to religious life and organization. Interesting to specialists and general readers alike. The printing is poor.

116. Allen, Robert Loring.
Soviet Influence in Latin America: the Role of Economic Relations. Washington, D. C., Public Affairs Press, 1959. 108 p. $3.25 Survey and interpretation. The author concludes that there will not be significant trade increase within the next few years unless Latin America becomes high Soviet priority.

117. Faust, Augustus F.
Brazil; Education in an Expanding Economy. Washington, D. C., Government Printing Office, 1959. 142 p. $.50 A North American study of the educational situation in Brazil and the dynamic changes taking place in the schools of that rapidly growing country. Much information packed into a small book.

118. MacDonald, N. P.
The Land and People of Brazil. (The Lands and Peoples Series). London, Adam & Charles Black, 1959. 96 p. 7/6 Vast, colorful Brazil, with its admixture of peoples, rapidly growing cities and undeveloped hinterland. History, geography and present conditions briefly summarized.

119. Martz, John D.
Central America; the Crisis and the Challenge. Chapel Hill, University of North Carolina Press, 1959. 356 p. $7.50 Six countries in a "neglected area" of the Americas: their modern history, political and economic problems. A keen analysis, critical of U. S. government policy.

120. Palmer, Thomas W., Jr.
Search for a Latin American Policy. Gainesville, University of Florida Press, 1957. 217 p. $4.50 A highly important and useful book, factual, interpretative and sympathetic, on the role and influence of the United States in Latin America. The author, a gifted political scientist, writes with broad perspective as well as about particular situations and relates his study to the problem of Communist penetration.

121. Pendle, George.
The Lands and Peoples of Paraguay and Uruguay. (The Lands and Peoples Series). London, Adam & Charles Black, 1959. 95 p. 7/6 Brief, vivid account of the history, land and people of two neighboring and different South American republics. Several pages on Catholic and Anglican missions.

122. Pike, Frederick B.
Freedom and Reform in Latin America. Notre Dame, Ind., University of Notre Dame, 1959. 308 p. $6.00 A series of eleven essays inspired by a symposium held on the Notre Dame Campus by the Committee on International Relations. The general theme is an analysis of the progress of democracy, freedom, and totalitarianism in South American countries. Index of proper names, but not of subjects.

123. Study Conference of the Committee on Cooperation in Latin America, November 6-8, 1958.
From Missions to Mission in Latin America. N. Y., NCCC-DFM, 1959. 76 p. $1.00 (25¢ each) Informative papers by K. S. Latourette, "The early evangelical missionary movement in Latin America;" Alberto Rembao, "The growing Church and its changing environment;" "The mission concept of the North American Church;" Frank K. Means, "The mission boards and the evangelical churches in Latin America."

124. Willis, Frank.
Report on Visit to South America and Mexico. Geneva, World Alliance of YMCA's, 1959. 26 p. Account of a visit to ten countries of Latin America by a leader in the World Alliance of Y.M.C.A.'s; full of keen observations on the religious life and needs of this area and the work of the Christian Church.

See also: 306, 311.

D. EUROPE

125. Braun, Leopold L. S.
Religion in Russia; from Lenin to Krushchev; an Uncensored Account. Paterson, N. J., St. Anthony Guild Press, 1959. 88 p. $.50 An Assumptionist priest, assigned to Moscow at the time President Roosevelt recognized the Soviet Union, gives a somewhat diffuse account of religion in Russia since the Revolution. It is accurate up to the author's departure in 1956, not entirely so for the years since then. Useful as a popular summary of the Soviet Government's purpose and changing tactics with regard to religion.

126. Fisher, Harold H., ed.
American Research on Russia. Bloomington, Indiana University Press, 1959. 240 p. $5.00 The first attempt to make available to scholars and the public a listing of studies of Russia in America. Discussion of useful methodologies emphasizes the importance of "area" (interdisciplinary) studies. Suggestions for desirable future research are equally valuable. Although primarily a scholar's book, interested laymen will find here a rich bibliography on many phases of Russian life.

127. Inkeles, Alex, and Bauer, Raymond A., with the assistance of David Gleicher and Irving Rosow.
The Soviet Citizen; Daily Life in a Totalitarian Society. Cambridge, Mass., Harvard University Press, 1959. 533 p. $10.00 This book contains the result of a massive study of daily life in Soviet Russia undertaken by the Harvard Project on the Soviet Social System in 1950-51. The study is based on 2718 written questionnaires filled out by "refugee" Russians, most of whom were in Germany at the time. Informative descriptions of Russian vocations, education, family life, political motivations, etc. are the result.

128. Molnár, Amedeo.
Czechoslovak Protestantism Today. Foreword by J. L. Hromádka. Prague, Central Church Publishing House, 1954. 41 p. "The development of the Reformation in Czechoslovakia, how various Protestant churches are living and working today, and a resumé of the current activity of Czechoslovak theologians." Profusely illustrated. A window into the life and thought of the Czechoslovak Church today.

E. AFRICA (SOUTH OF THE SAHARA)

129. Adam, Thomas R.
Government and Politics in Africa South of the Sahara. N. Y., Random House, 1959. 145 p. $1.25 A succinct, well-informed survey of political conditions today in Sub-Sahara countries and territories.

130. Baumannville; a Study of an Urban African Community. Cape Town, Oxford University Press, 1959. 79 p. 27/6 Sociological research into the community life of Baumannville, a "location" in Durban, South Africa, showing the tensions between urban life and tribal customs, and between forces of tradition and of change.

131. Beater, B. E.
Soils of the Sugar Belt. Part Two: Natal South Coast. London and Capetown, Oxford University Press, 1959. 77 p. 35/ The second of three reports on the soil groups of the sugar industry of Natal, south of Durban. Survey of 198 sugar estates, statistical tables, photographs, large map.

132. Braun, Richard and Gertrude.
Letters from Ghana. Philadelphia, The Christian Education Press, 1959. 154 p. $2.00 A young missionary physician of the Evangelical and Reformed Church and his family begin adventurous pioneer work in Ghana. Letters to their families written in eager, spontaneous manner, published for general readers. Ten pages of photographs.

133. Buchholzer, John.
The Horn of Africa. Translated from the Danish by Maurice Michael. London, Angus and Robertson, 1959. 199 p. 22/9 Travels in British Somaliland and the former Italian possession in Somalia, a barren land inhabited by nomadic tribes, soon to be granted independence. Instructive and interesting. Many photographs with texts.

134. Clark, J. Desmond.
The Prehistory of Southern Africa. Baltimore, Md., Penguin Books, 1959. 341 p. $1.50 The author, an archaeologist who has been director of the Rhodes-Livingstone Museum for many years, has written a comprehensive survey of prehistoric archaeology in Africa from the time of the earliest hominids up to the period of Iron Age culture. The book is informative and the clear non-technical style will make it of interest to the layman as well as the specialist. A good index, extensive bibliography, many maps and illustrations, and sixteen pages of plates are included.

135. Cohen, Andrew.
British Policy in Changing Africa. 118 p. 12/ Harris Lectures at Northwestern University in 1958, by the British representative on the Trusteeship Council of the U. N. A succinct exposition of British aims and methods in the African colonies and of problems in the transfer of power to countries achieving political independence.

136. Davidson, Basil.
Old Africa Rediscovered. London, Victor Gollancz Ltd., 1959. 287 p. 25/- Africa and African peoples during the fifteen centuries before modern colonization: the results of exciting research by many historians and archaeologists. A study of oral traditions and excavations in nine major areas, revealing Africa's unique past, as a foundation for Africa's new future. A notable volume.

137. deGraft-Johnson, J. C.
African Experiment; Cooperative Agriculture and Banking in British West Africa. London, Watts, 1958. 198 p. 25/ Agricultural conditions and problems in British West Africa; the transition in land laws, and the development of cooperative marketing and credit which have helped to reduce rural indebtedness. A wise, sympathetic study by a British official with long experience in the Gold Coast.

138. Elisofon, Eliot.
The Sculpture of Africa. London, Thames & Hudson, 1958. 256 p. 70/ This magnificent and expensive volume contains 405 selected photographs of African sculpture, treated as art objects from the viewpoint of aesthetics and anthropology; also, scholarly essays interpreting the history and meaning of African sculpture. Unique in its field.

139. Fitzgerald, Walter.
Africa; a Social, Economic and Political Geography of its Major Regions. 8th ed., revised by W. C. Brice. London, Methuen, 1957. 511 p. 35/ First published in 1934, this university textbook on African geography has been widely used and appreciated. The latest edition embodies important revisions and additions. Good maps and charts.

140. Forde, Daryll, ed.
Efik Traders of Old Calabar. London, Oxford University Press, 1956. 166 p. 16/ in U. K. only. The diary of Autera Duke, an Efik chief, (1785-1788), written in Pidgin and translated into English, describing Egbo society and the slave trade of the time in old Calabar Province (Nigeria). Notes and commentaries on the diary and an interpretive chapter. The Church of Scotland had missionary work in the area.

141. Gecaga, B. Mareka.
Home Life in Kikuyu-Land or Kariuki and Muthoni. Nairobi, The Eagle Press, 1949. 17 p. $1.00 A Kikuyu citizen of Kenya, educated at a C.M.S. school and Makarere College, tells the story of Kariuki from birth to death; an interpretation of the traditions and customs of a people from within.

142. Green, Lawrence G.
Lords of the Last Frontier. London, Stanley Paul and Co. Ltd., 1953. 237 p. 16/ The fascinating story of South-west Africa, from its earliest traditions through the German colonial period to present times; enlivened by the author's own journeyings and observations for over thirty years in the territory.

143. Griffiths, James.
Livingstone's Africa Yesterday and Today. London, Epworth Press, 1958. 96 p. 7/6 The lands of Central and East Africa which Livingstone discovered now stand at the cross-roads of the continent where black-white relations are most complex and agonizing. The author, M. P. and Christian, deplores the color bar and calls for a policy of living and working together in multiracial societies.

144. Günther, Gerhard.
Erweckung in Afrika; vom Aufbruch junger Kirchen im östlichen Afrika. Stuttgart, Evang. Missionsverlag, 1959. 93 p. n. p. Awakening in Africa, story of the church revivals in East Africa during the 20th century.

145. Hatch, John.
Everyman's Africa. London, Dennis Dobson, 1959. 263 p. 21/ Informative and skillfully written introduction to the study of Africa - its colonies and independent states, its peoples and problems - by an English university lecturer, author of New From Africa. More attention is given to areas of British rule and influence.

146. Longmore, Laura.
The Dispossessed; a Study of the Sex-Life of Bantu Women in and around Johannesburg. London, Jonathan Cape, 1959. 334 p. The effects of overcrowded urban surroundings in segregated Johannesburg upon the social and moral life of the detribalized African family. Based on years of intense, sympathetic research; a disturbing and depressing picture. Chapter 9 on "The Church" is extremely critical.

147. Low, D. A.
Religion and Society in Buganda 1875-1900. (East African Studies No. 8). Kampala, Uganda, East African Institute of Social Research. 16 p. 3/6
How Christianity became the religion of the Baganda, involved in the political and social order within Buganda, and in the relations between the Baganda and the British protectorate administration; a significant paper for the history of missionary expansion.

148. Middleton, John, and Tait, David.
Tribes without Rulers; Studies in African Segmentary Systems. London, Routledge & Kegan Paul, 1958. 234 p. $5.50 Essays on the political system of African peoples in six societies without centralized political authority, where the tribe is the largest unit and segmentary lineage structures prevail. The cream of recent anthropological research in Nigeria, south equatorial Sudan, Uganda, Belgian Congo, and Togoland.

149. Penfield, James K.
The Role of the United States in Africa, Our Interests and Operations. Washington, D. C., GPO, 1959. 8 p. $.10 A reprint from the Department of State Bulletin. One paragraph is devoted to missionary and philanthropic activities in Africa.

150. Shepperson, George and Price, Thomas.
Independent African; John Chilembwe and the Origins, Setting and Significance of the Nyasaland Native Rising of 1915. Edinburgh, The University Press, 1958. 564 p. 50 s. Remarkable research on the Nyasaland native uprising of 1915, led by the African pastor John Chilembwe, and its failure. The story of his connection with the American missionary Joseph and with various sectarian movements including Jehovah's Witnesses is clearly depicted, with convincing documentation. A strange and significant episode in African history.

151. Sithole, Ndabaningi. With a foreword by R. S. Garfield Todd.
African Nationalism. N. Y., Oxford University Press, 1959. 174 p. $3.25
An exceedingly well written book by an African who overcame tremendous obstacles to receive a university education. Now an ordained minister and principal of a primary school in Southern Rhodesia, he warns the Western world that Africa requires freedom from both the West and Communism in order to achieve its own indigenous democratic culture. He thoughtfully discusses the part the church can play in this inevitable development of African nationalism.

152. Stenning, Derrick J.
Savannah Nomads; a Study of the Wodaabe Pastoral Fulani of Western Bornu Province Northern Region, Nigeria. London, Oxford University Press, 1959. 266 p. 40/ Field study of the Wodaabe tribe of Northern Nigeria, Fulani people numbering about six million, dispersed over 2,000 miles from Senegal to Lake Chad. Changes in the last half century under British and French administration, portrayal of the pastoral way of life. Published for the International African Institute.

153. Watson, William.
Tribal Cohesion in a Money Economy. Manchester, England, Manchester University Press, 1958. 246 p. 30 s. The Mombina, a cattle-raising people in northeastern Rhodesia, send thousands of men every year to the copper mines. This anthropological study reveals that migrations, wage-earning, and now money economy have not seriously affected tribal institutions and identity or the prestige of the tribal chief. Many references to Christian missions, especially the London Missionary Society and the rapidly increasing "Jehovah's Witnesses."

154. Wolfe, Alvin W.
Field Guide to West and Central Africa. Washington, D. C., National Academy of Sciences, 1959. 40 p. A concise and useful reference book; basic data for "international anthropologists" countries and territories; relations with scientific institutions, governments, Christian missions, African groups; one section on research needs and opportunities.

See also: 3, 9, 13, 39, 46, 48, 65, 104, 105, 170, 312, 314.

F. NEAR EAST, MIDDLE EAST AND NORTH AFRICA

155. Clark, Michael K.
Algeria in Turmoil; a History of the Rebellion. N. Y., Frederick A. Praeger, 1959. 466 p. $6.00 Historical backgrounds of the past century; a detailed and comprehensive account of the rebellion beginning in 1954; by a former correspondent of the New York Times. The author analyzes the clash between two disparate cultures, advocates an intensive effort at integration and shows strong sympathy for the French position.

156. Diolé, Philippe.
The Most Beautiful Desert of All. London, Jonathan Cape, 1959. 192 p. 18/ A lover of the sea writes with scientific accuracy and poetic imagination about the once-populated desert of Sahara, "a vast pandemonium frozen into stillness." The spell which the desert casts today upon its sparse population and occasional visitors is clearly felt.

157. Eban, Abba.
The Tide of Nationalism. N. Y., Horizon Press, 1959. 62 p. $2.00 An eloquently articulate Israel statesman interprets his country's history and mission in relation to the partly Arab "Arab world." "The world sees Israel as endowed with a dimension beyond the perspectives of its limited territory and population."

158. Fisher, Sydney Nettleton.
The Middle East; a History. N. Y., Alfred A. Knopf, 1959. 650 p. $8.95 Well-organized, integrated history of Middle East empires and states from the time of Muhammad to the revolutionary present, characterized by westernization, extreme nationalism and anti-imperialism. Useful text for students of international affairs and the reading public.

159. Glubb, John Bagot.
Britain and the Arabs; a Study of Fifty Years 1908 to 1958. London, Hodder and Stoughton, 1959. 496 p. 30/ An exceptionally good history of the ups and downs of British-Arab relations during the past half century, providing a wealth of information and also interpretation. The author, who has spent 36 years in the Middle East as soldier and scholar, is a sympathetic and understanding friend of Arab peoples.

160. Lipsky, George A.
Saudi Arabia, its people, its society, its culture (Survey of World Culture Series). New Haven, Conn., Human Relations Area Files, 1959. 366 p. $7.00 Not original research, but a good summary of information about a key country in the culture, economy and religion of the Arab world. Written for the general reader.

161. Rabinowicz, Rachel Anne.
The Land and People of Israel. (The Lands and Peoples Series) London, Adam & Charles Black, 1959. 96 p. 7/6 The story of reborn Israel -- its many contrasts, communal settlements, homes and schools, political organization -- by a strongly partisan writer. Photographs and maps.

162. Sandford, Emily White.
West Meets East; Our Home in North Africa. N. Y., Vantage Press, 1958. 165 p. $3.00 Mr. and Mrs. Sandford, artist and writer, have made long annual visits to North Africa, entering intimately into the culture and life of Arab peoples. This is a chatty journal describing their experiences and impressions over several decades.

163. Shwadran, Benjamin.
Jordan a State of Tension. N. Y., Council for Middle Eastern Affairs Press, 1959. 436 p. $7.00 The turbulent history of Jordan from pre-historic times to the present involvement in regional struggles and alliances and in Great Power politics. Especially interesting is the analysis of relations with Nasser's Egypt. The book concludes with an evaluation of future possibilities. The author is editor of Middle Eastern Affairs.

164. Wilber, Donald N.
Iran - Oasis of Stability in Middle East? (F.P.A. Headline Series, No. 137) N. Y., Foreign Policy Association, 1959. 62 p. $.35 "The political stability of this Muslim non-Arab land and its capacity to use its rich oil resources for the welfare of its people will affect not only Iran's own destiny, but also that of the Middle East." An appraisal of Iran's strengths and weaknesses.

See also: 271.

G. CENTRAL ASIA

165. Goullart, Peter.
Land of the Lamas; Adventures in Secret Tibet. N. Y., E. P. Dutton, 1959. 221 p. $4.00 A White Russian who lived in China many years narrates his exciting and often dangerous adventures in Sikang and Tibet, especially among the formidable Lolos. He writes from keen observation and with a genuine love of the strange country and people.

166. Inner Mongolia Today. Peking, Nationalities Publishing House, 1957. 175 p. HK$6.40 Nearly 200 striking photographs, black-and-white and in color, showing the "phenomenal development" that has taken place on the prairies of Inner Mongolia since the establishment of the (Communist) autonomous regime in 1947. Captions in Chinese and English; artful publicity.

167. Sgam.Po.Pa.
Jewel Ornament of Liberation. Tr. from the Tibetan and annotated by Herbert V. Guenther. London, Rider, 1959. 333 p. 42/ First western translation of a classic Buddhist text by Sgam.Po.Pa., philosopher-saint of Tibet (b. 1079 A.D.), which interprets the steps to enlightenment and Buddahood. Copious notes and indices and a pronunciation guide to Tibetan words are included. The editor is a British scholar who has lived long in India.

168. Thomas, Lowell, Jr.
The Silent War in Tibet. Garden City, N. Y., Doubleday, 1959. 284 p. $3.95 The distinguished son of a famous explorer-author pictures vividly the Chinese Communist advance into Tibet, the resistance movement inspired by the Dalai Lama, the effect upon India and Nepal, and the outlook for the future. The book clarifies the Tibetan situation today for the student of world affairs.

H. SOUTHERN ASIA

169. Beidelman, Thomas O.
A Comparative Analysis of the Jajmani System. Locust Valley, N. Y., J. J. Augustin, 1959. 86 p. $2.50 The Indian jajmani system of social and economic interdependence between the castes is analyzed in terms of the chief givers and receivers of services and with respect to distribution of power and resulting conflicts. Keen, scholarly research by a young American anthropologist, throwing light on changing India. Good bibliography.

170. Carter, Gwendolyn M. and Brown, William O., ed.
Transition in Africa: Studies in Political Adaptation. Boston, Boston University, 1958. 158 p. $3.00 Papers read at meetings of the American Political Science Association in 1956, dealing ably with political conflict and transition in Ghana, Nigeria, Central Africa and Kenya. Extensive bibliography, partly annotated, detailed index.*

171. Cattell, Catherine DeVol.
Till Break of Day. Grand Rapids, Michigan, Wm. B. Eerdmans Publishing Co., 1947. 210 p. $2.50 Sketches of missionary life and work in India, penned with artistic feeling, Christian devotion and love for the Indian people; by the wife of the Superintendent of Ohio Friends India Missions, in Bundelkhand of North India.

172. Chacko, George K.
India; toward an understanding. N. Y., Bookman Associates, 1959. 212 p. $4.50 A keen interpretation of the ideological conflict today in India, in the light of India's history and distinctive situation; and bold proposals for a new pattern of action that will integrate Western techniques with Eastern traditions.

*Should be in Africa section.

173. Facts About Goa. New Delhi, Information Service of India. 16 p. $.15
The Indian case for Goa's freedom from Portuguese rule, strongly supported by facts and arguments.

174. Gopalan, A. K.
Kerala Past and Present. London, Lawrence & Wishart, 1959. 128 p. 15/
An Indian MP and member of the Indian Communist Party presents a history and description of the state in southwest India which elected a Communist government in 1957, glorifying Communist achievements. Published before the recent agitation against the state government and assumption of control by the government of India.

175. Ghurye, G. S.
Indian Sadhus. Bombay, Popular Book Depot, 1953. 300 p. Rs. 15.50
Indian asceticism and its multitudinous sects and groups through four thousand years. Sadhuism began as individual asceticism and developed into a religio-social institution with many interesting personalities. The book evaluates their contribution.

176. Gosvami, O.
The Story of Indian Music: Its Growth and Synthesis. Bombay, Asia Publishing House, 1957. 332 p. Rs. 14.50 A scholarly and also fascinating history of Indian music, from the earliest times to the present day, with description of Indian musical instruments, types, melodies and meanings. Should be of especial interest to those who are trying to create Indian forms of Christian music and hymnology.

177. Husain, Mazhar.
The Law Relating to Foreigners in India and the Citizenship Laws of India & Pakistan. 2nd ed. Lucknow, Eastern Book Company, 1959. 287 p. Rs. 12.50
Useful information, well-organized, in a book of handy size. Important reference book for missionary societies and visitors to India.

178. Jawaharlal Nehru's Speeches 1949-1953. Delhi, Publications Division, Ministry of Information and Broadcasting. Government of India, 1957. 602 p. $3.00
A selection of the more significant of Prime Minister Nehru's speeches and writings between 1949 and 1953, revealing a brilliant mind groping for solutions to stupendous problems of national reconstruction.

179. Ludowyk, E. F. C.
The Footprint of the Buddha. London, George Allen & Unwin, 1958. 182 p. 30/ The mountain peak of Ceylon celebrated in legends of Adam's visit and Buddha's footprint is the starting point for this engaging book on Buddhist monuments and sculpture of old Lanka (Ceylon).

180. Malaviya, H. D.
Kerala, a Report to the Nation. New Delhi, People's Publishing House, 1959. 128 p. Rs. 1.25 Written before the recent dissolution of the Communist government in Kerala State, this is a favorable history of Communism in southwest India and a defense of Communist programs and methods.

181. Malenbaum, Wilfred.
East and West in India's Development. Washington, D. C., National Planning Assn., 1959. 67 p. $1.75 Trade-and-aid programs of the Communist World and Free World in their tug-of-war for Indian support; a study in comparative and competitive economics.

182. Nanda, Gulzari Lal.
Progress of Land Reforms in India. New Delhi, Indian National Congress, 1957. 26 p. 15 nP. A brief survey of land reform achievements to date and recommendations for improving and speeding up the program.

183. Rajarigam, D.
The History of Tamil Christian Literature. Madras, The Christian Literature Society, 1958. 67 p. Rs. 1.75 Originally written as a thesis at the Berkeley Theological Seminary, U. S. A. and published with some revisions, a fine historical study by an Indian Christian scholar. References and bibliography.

184. Workman, Katherine A.
In the Heart of Hindustan. Waukesha, Wisc., Metropolitan Church Assn., 1934. 238 p. $1.25 A missionary, of the Metropolitan Church Association, describes the dark side of Indian village life and incidents in the work of the mission station at Siwait.

185. Yasin, Mohammad.
A Social History of Islamic India 1605-1748. Lucknow, The Upper India Publishing House, 1958. 234 p. Rs. 15.00 Interpretation of an important period of Indian history that stresses the life of the people under Islamic rule and the changes that took place in Indian religion and culture. By a Muslim professor in the University of Lucknow.

See also: 21, 59, 64, 67, 84, 270.

I. SOUTH EAST ASIA

186. Ah Kow, Adelaide.
Thirty Years in Indonesia. London, Salvationist Publishing and Supplies, 1949. 80 p. The story of Mary and John Thompson, Australian born Salvation Army missionaries who spent thirty sacrificial years in service to the poor and needy of Indonesia.

187. Busch, Noel F.
Thailand; an Introduction to Modern Siam. Princeton, N. J., D. Van Nostrand, 1959. 166 p. $3.50 Written with perception and charm -- a fine little book on the history, modern life, culture and religion of this independent kingdom in Asia.

188. Cady, John F.
A History of Modern Burma. Ithaca, Cornell University Press, 1958. 682 p. $7.50 "What has happened politically to Burma and the Burmese people during the last century and a half." The disappearance of old Burma, British colonial rule, Burmese nationalism and independent Burma with its problems and prospects. A good historical study, for scholars and also the general reader. However, little attention is given to Christian missions and churches.

189. Downs, Richard Erskine.
The Religion of the Bare'e-Speaking Toradja of Central Celebes. 's-Gravenhage, Excelsior, 1956. 110 p. 11.40 Fl. Religious beliefs, practices and rituals of the Toradja peoples of Celebes in Indonesia, before their conversion to Christianity. The author is critical of previous studies by Adriani and Kruyt.

190. Elegant, Robert S.
The Dragon's Seed, Peking and the Overseas Chinese. N. Y., St. Martin's Press, 1959. 319 p. $4.95 A realistic and comprehensive report on the overseas Chinese of Southeast Asia who are economically strong, politically weak, and emotionally insecure. The author suggests a new approach in U.S. policy to save them from becoming a political instrument of Communist China. A book that deserves special attention in view of the victory of the left-wing People's Action Party in Singapore.

191. Forster, Harold.
Flowering Lotus. London, Longmans, 1959. 281 p. $5.75 A sensitive, personal narrative of four years in Java and Bali, reflecting a profound appreciation of the people, their history and traditions, their arts and their national aspirations. The English author taught at a university in Indonesia.

192. Kahin, George McTurnan, ed.
Governments and Politics of Southeast Asia. Ithaca, N. Y., Cornell University Press, 1959. 531 p. $6.50 Thailand, Burma, Indonesia, Malaya and Singapore, Vietnam, and the Philippines, are surveyed by seven scholars who have lived in these countries, in a symposium of informative and perceptive essays. Published under the auspices of the Southeast Asia Program of Cornell University. Important for reference, also repays careful reading.

193. Moran, J. W. G.
Spearhead in Malaya. London, Peter Davies, 1959. 287 p. 16/ The part played by the Royal Federation of Malaya Police Force (the mata-mata) in the fight against strong Communist guerilla forces. A true story written in the form of an exciting novel, by a British officer.

194. Staff Members of the Vietnam Project, Michigan State University, comp.
What to Read on Vietnam; a Selected Annotated Bibliography. N. Y., Institute of Pacific Relations, 1959. 67 p. $1.25 Books, articles, special reports (about 300 items), and a list of periodicals published in Vietnam. Well-written annotations; an excellent bibliography on this important corner of the Free World. Mimeographed.

195. Steinberg, David J.
Cambodia, its people, its society, its culture. (Survey of World Culture Series) New Haven, Conn., Human Relations Area Files, 1959. 350 p. $7.00 A recent history of this newly independent state and a description of its fascinating people and culture. A good guidebook for the traveler and general reader.

196. Thompson, Douglas W.
Dangerous Opportunity; the New Work among Chinese in S. E. Asia. London, Cargate Press, n. d. 37 p. 1/6 A pamphlet describing "the Chinese overspill" into Southeast Asia, and the work of English Methodist missions among these Chinese emigrees in Malaya, Hong Kong, Borneo. The title is a common mistranslation of the Chinese phrase wei-chi (crisis).

197. A Public Development Program for Thailand. Baltimore, The John Hopkins Press, 1959. 301 p. $6.00 Thorough analysis of Thailand's economy and proposals for agricultural, industrial, educational, social and economic reconstruction. Report of mission organized by the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

198. Van der Kroef, Justus M.
Indonesian Social Evolution, Some Psychological Considerations. Amsterdam, C. P. J. Van der Peet, 1958. 189 p. $5.00 An erudite, psychological inquiry into the structure and evolution of Indonesian society, with special attention to the socio-cultural disorganization in the revolutionary period. Based upon wide knowledge of previous sources and relevant literature.

See also: 61.

J. EAST ASIA

199. Barnett, A. Doak.
Communist Economic Strategy: the Rise of Mainland China. Washington, D. C., National Planning Association, 1959. 106 p. $2.50 Analysis of Communist China's domestic economy, industrialization, agricultural production, "leap forward" and communization, foreign trade and aid. "There can be no doubt that Communist China's domestic economic development and foreign economic policies present a serious challenge to the free world." By a China-born American economist.

200. Bettelheim, Charles, et al.
China Shakes the World Again. N. Y., Monthly Review Press, 1959. 64 p. $1.00 Two Indian scholars and two French scholars write these approving essays about China's communes, economic growth, agriculture, and investment of surplus labor. Edited by the Monthly Review. "Radicals should greet China's pioneering efforts with enthusiasm and hope, and should wish the Chinese people all success."

201. Bush, Lewis.
Japanalia. (Fifth revised and enlarged edition) N. Y., David McKay, 1959. 311 p. $5.50 A useful, one-volume encyclopedia of Japanese history, geography, culture, arts, and religions. Illustrated. Bibliography and index.

202. ------.
Land of the Dragon-fly. London, Robert Hale, 1959. 224 p. 21/- A panoramic history of Japan in modern times, stressing the important political and military events and the periods of great change since 1867. No new historical research, and a rather pedestrian style.

203. Chandrasekhar, S.
China's Population; Census and Vital Statistics. Hong Kong, Hong Kong University Press, 1959. 69 p. $1.20 A careful study by a leading social scientist of India who has taught and lectured in several universities abroad. According to the present rate of growth, he projects Communist China's population as one billion by the year 1980.

204. China in Transition; Selected Articles 1952-1956. Peking, China Reconstructs, 1957. 434 p. H.K. $5.20 Selection of 72 articles written between 1952 and 1956 for the English language magazine China Reconstructs, interpreting China's development in various fields under the new regime. Strongly nationalistic and pro-Communist. Attractively printed.

205. Clark, Gerald.
Impatient Giant--Red China Today. N. Y., David McKay, 1959. 212 p. $4.50 Red China undergoing a tremendous social transformation and becoming a dynamic new power in world affairs, described by an able Canadian newsman who visited the country in 1958. A frank, revealing, readable, and at the same time deeply disturbing report. The Christian Church is briefly mentioned.

206. The Common Christian Responsibility toward Areas of Rapid Social Change in Japan. Tokyo, National Christian Council of Japan, 1959. 50 p. Papers and discussions by Japanese Christian leaders, in relation to the study of Church and Social Change sponsored by the World Council of Churches.

207. Croft, Michael.
Red Carpet to China. London, Longmans, Green, 1958. 278 p. 21/ Travelogue of an English teacher, dramatist and writer, member of an international youth delegation to China in 1957. Without being brain-washed he learned a good deal about life in Communist China and his book is both candid and entertaining.

208. Crook, David and Isobel.
Revolution in a Chinese Village, Ten Mile Inn. London, Routledge and Kegan Paul, 1959. 190 p. 21/ Isobel Brown Crook, daughter of Canadian missionaries and her husband, British teacher and journalist, have lived in Communist China for over ten years. Here they describe the changes that have taken place in a village of the "Border Region" of north central China from 1947 to 1958 and the "achievements of eight years of democratic reforms." A partisan, inside story, written by an intelligent and sympathetic foreign team.

209. Cusack, Dymphna.
Chinese Women Speak. Sydney, Angus & Robertson, 1958. 262 p. 25/- The Australian authoress writes about the women from all walks of life whom she met during her eighteen months in Communist China, including Madame Chow En-lai and many village and industrial workers. Through rose-colored glasses Miss Cusack sees the emergence of a new, emancipated womanhood.

210. Eskelund, Karl.
The Red Mandarins, Travels in Red China. London, Alvin Redman, 1959. 175 p. 25/ The author lived six years as a youth in China and studied at Yenching University. In this book he describes his return to visit Communist China in 1957. Talking with many people and probing beneath the surface to the real thoughts of the mainland Chinese he presents a revealing interpretation, humorous, critical, and quite different from some of the ecstatic reports of foreign tourists.

211. Feng Yuan-Chun.
A Short History of Classical Chinese Literature. Peking, Foreign Languages Press, 1958. 132 p. From the China mainland comes this exceptionally good, brief survey of Chinese literature, earliest beginnings to the 19th century. The distinctive features and main writers of each period are described, and their influence on later times. The proletarian viewpoint is evident but not over-emphasized.

212. Fleming, Peter.
The Siege at Peking. London, Rupert Hart-Davis, 1959. 273 p. 25/ A brilliantly written study of the Chinese Boxer Uprising of 1900 and especially the bizarre and exciting occurrences in Peking. Utilizing hitherto unpublished materials the author presents not only an analysis of the historical facts but also some interpretation of the "mysteries" in this strange period of Chinese-western relations. He is unsparing in his criticism of both sides.

213. Fox, R. M.
China Diary. London, Robert Hale, 1959. 192 p. 18/- A record of varied experiences and impressions in Communist China, by an Irish dramatic critic and author who has also visited Soviet Russia. Mr. Fox accepted largely the optimistic reports of his Communist guides.

214. Greene, Felix.
What's Really Happening in China? San Francisco, City Lights Books, 1959. 51 p. $1.00 The recent chief of the B. B. C.'s American Bureau describes his recent visit to Communist China and his impressions of the dynamic regime; he urges also a revision of American policy to China. Bibliography of recent books and articles on China.

215. Greene, Fred.
The Far East. N. Y., Rinehart, 1958. 589 p. $8.00 Narrative and interpretation of important events in national development and international relations of Far Eastern countries (Japan westward to Pakistan) during the twentieth century, revealing the cross-currents of Asian politics. The author is professor at Williams College.

216. Ho, Ping-ti
Studies on the Population of China, 1368-1953. Cambridge, Mass., Harvard University Press, 1959. 341 p. $6.00 Pioneering research into China's population growth over the past six centuries (from 65 million to 600 million), and the factors that have affected it. Based on extensive use of primary sources; a brilliant achievement by a Chinese scholar.

217. Horn, Joshua S.
A Letter from Peking; China's Communes. London, Britain-China Friendship Association, 1959. 15 p. 1/ An ecstatic report on the new communes in China by a British physician, consulting surgeon at Peking Medical College Hospital for the past five years, and glowing prophecies of the future.

218. Ike, Nobutaka.
The Hoover Institution Collection on Japan. Stanford University, Calif., Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace, 1958. 63 p. $1.04 The bulk of this important collection pertains to modern and recent history and the social sciences, with emphasis on political institutions and movements. Most of the 30,000 volumes (excluding periodicals and newspapers) are in the Japanese language.

219. Jones, F. C.
Challenge in China. Toronto, Canadian Institute of International Affairs, 1959. 16 p. $.20 A pamphlet for study and discussion, by the professor of history at the University of Bristol, England.

220. Keene, Donald.
Living Japan. Garden City, N. Y., Doubleday, 1959. 224 p. $7.95 A fascinating panorama of modern Japan, with 158 photographs and a fine descriptive text. A book that is scholarly and also attractive to the reading public.

221. Kidder, J. Edward, Jr.
Japan before Buddhism. N. Y., Frederick A. Praeger, 1959. 282 p. $5.50 The first book in a western language to give an over-all view of Japanese prehistory and protohistory. Based upon important archaeological excavations and much hitherto unpublished material. Over one hundred illustrations.

222. Laures, Johannes.
Takayama Ukon, und die Anfänge der Kirche in Japan. Munster Westfalen, Aschendorffsche, 1954. 397 p.

223. Liu, Hui-Chen Wang.
The Traditional Chinese Clan Rules. Locust Valley, N. Y., J. J. Augustin, 1959. 264 p. $5.50 A unique inquiry into the status, organization and influence of the traditional Chinese tsu or clan, through analysis of written rules of conduct in 151 clan genealogies. A distinctive contribution to the sociology of China by a Chinese woman scholar.

224. Lum, Peter.
Peking 1950-1953. London, Robert Hale, 1958. 186 p. 18/- The journal of the American wife of a British foreign service officer, during four increasingly tense years in the capital of Communist China. Full of interesting observations, experiences and reflections, that serve as footnotes to history.

225. Mao, Tse-Tung.
Selected Works of Mao Tse-Tung, Vol. four. London, Lawrence & Wishart, 1956. 348 p. 6/- Thirty addresses and papers of Mao Tse-tung, prepared at Yenan during the World War years 1941-1945. Vigorous style. The authorized translation is exceedingly well done.

226. Needham, Joseph, with the collaboration of Wang Ling.
Science and Civilization in China. Vol. 3, Mathematics and the Sciences of the Heavens and the Earth. Cambridge, Cambridge University Press, 1959. 874 p. $27.50 Third volume of a monumental history of Chinese science.

227. Olsen, Kaj.
Langs det yderste hav. Hellerup, Danske Missionselskab, 1959. 131 p. Christian mission and church in Taiwan, by a Danish missionary.

228. Orr, Boyd, and Townsend, Peter.
What's Happening in China? London, Macdonald, 1959. 159 p. 15/ Communist China seen as a united and relatively stable country, embarking on a vast program of agricultural and industrial development under a totalitarian government, facing further political transformation in the coming years. By two British economists and writers, who recently visited the China mainland. Interesting, but little new data.

229. An Outline History of China. Peking, Foreign Languages Press, 1958. 487 p. Communist-slanted history of China in the English language, more than one-half devoted to the 19th and 20th centuries of "western imperialistic aggression." Unexciting style, a clearly printed but poorly bound book.

230. Reiser, A. Irene.
The Dwarf Pine. Rutland, Vt., Charles E. Tuttle, 1959. 310 p. $2.50 A first novel by a Presbyterian woman missionary in Japan. The sad story of a middle class family, ending on a note of hope; Christianity comes briefly into the story. Sympathetic insight into Japanese life, and an interesting plot; the characters are not too sharply drawn.

231. Richie, Donald.
The Land and People of Japan. (The Lands and Peoples Series) N. Y., The Macmillan Company, 1958. 96 p. $1.50 An attempt to describe modern Japan and its people in simple and understandable terms.

232. Rowe, David Nelson.
Modern China: A Brief History. Princeton, N. J., D. Van Nostrand Company, Inc., 1959. 192 p. $1.25 Part I is a brief history of modern China. Part II consists of 22 selected readings -- important treaties, state papers, speeches, etc. The author's viewpoint is strongly pro-Nationalist and anti-Communist. He believesthe U. S. should prepare for war with Communist China.

233. Rudolph, Philip.
North Korea's Political and Economic Structure. N. Y., International Secretariat, Institute of Pacific Relations, 1959. 72 p. $2.00 A concise account of the political structure and institutions of North Korea, from Russian and Korean sources, with selected bibliography. Exploration of a little known field of study.

234. Sansom, George.
A History of Japan to 1334. London, The Cresset Press, 1958. 500 p. 63/ The first of three encyclopedic volumes which will cover Japanese history from its beginnings to 1854, emphasizing Japan's political, military and social development. The author is a highly respected scholar who writes with broad knowledge as well as with painstaking care in narration and interpretation.

235. Sheldon, Charles David.
The Rise of the Merchant Class in Tokugawa Japan 1600-1868. Locust Valley, N. Y., J. J. Augustin, 1959. 206 p. $5.00 The rise of the merchant class in Japan from the lowest position in feudal society to one of economic and social power was of marked significance for Japanese nationhood and culture. An authoritative, carefully documented history of the important development.

236. Smith, Thomas C.
The Agrarian Origins of Modern Japan. Stanford, Calif., Stanford University Press, 1959. 250 p. $5.00 Based upon exhaustive researches by Japanese scholars, this excellent volume surveys the Tokugawa period from 1600 to 1868 A. D. and shows how slow but dynamic changes in agrarian life sent many youths to the cities and prepared the way for Japan's modernization.

237. Stevenson, William.
The Yellow Wind: An excursion in and around Red China with a traveler in the Yellow Wind. Boston, Houghton Mifflin Company, 1959. 424 p. $6.00 Extraordinarily discerning and readable report on Communist China, by a Canadian foreign correspondent who has made prolonged trips through East Asia. He believes that Mao's Chinese Communism is more dangerous than the Slavic type.

238. Storry, Richard.
The Double Patriots; a Study of Japanese Nationalism. London, Chatto and Windus, 1957. 335 p. 25/ Japan's chauvinistic and reckless nationalists ("double patriots") who, in spite of opposition at times, led their country from the early twenties to the Pearl Harbor attack in 1941. Discerning historical research, making use of hitherto unpublished sources. The author is an Australian scholar.

239. Sword of the Spirit.
Religious Freedom in China. Hinckley, Leics., Samuel Walker, n. d. 25 p. 6 d. Sufferings of Roman Catholic missionaries and Christians in Communist China, through torture, imprisonment and martyrdom. Includes the Christian defense of Fr. John Tung. Translated into English.

240. Thomas, Pete.
As we saw it. . .China's Great Leap. Sydney, Current Book Distributors, 1958. 55 p. 2/- A one-sided, ecstatic view of Communist China's material and social progress by an Australian journalist.

241. Vinache, Harold M.
A History of the Far East in Modern Times. Sixth ed. N. Y., Appleton-Century-Crofts, 1959. 877 p. $6.75 Sixth and revised edition of a standard textbook on the history of East and Southeast Asia, stressing the impact of the West and reactions to it. Scholarly in method and encyclopedic in content.

242. Wang, Wei. Chang Yin-nan and Lewis C. Walmsley, tr.
Poems by Wang Wei. Rutland, Vt., Charles E. Tuttle, 1959. 159 p. $3.00 A new translation of 136 poems by Wang Wei (659-759 A. D.), famous Chinese painter, poet and statesman, influenced by Buddhism in his later life; also, a sketch of his life. The translations are not too faithful to the original and are rather stiff. The book is beautifully printed, with several photographs of Chinese paintings.

243. Wint, Guy.
Dragon and Sickle; How Communist Revolution Happened in China. London, The Pall Mall Press, 1958. 109 p. 10/6 A leading British political scientist and writer on international themes makes an incisive evaluation of Chinese Communism, its relation to Soviet Russia, its accomplishments and influence, and the indirect strategy that it will probably employ to win the rest of Asia.

244. Yang, C. K.
A Chinese Village in Early Communist Transition. Cambridge, Mass., Harvard University Press, 1959. 284 p. $6.50 A Chinese professor of sociology at University of Pittsburgh records a field study made several years ago (1948-1951) of Nanching, a suburban village in South China, under both Nationalist and Communist rule. This has been followed by a study from newspaper and refugee reports of changes up to 1958, including the development of the people's communes. Thoughtful discussion of a major transition.

250. Y. M. C. A.
Serving Youth in a New Asia. Report of the Fourth Leaders' Conference of Y.M.C.A.'s, Silver Mine Bay, Hong Kong, December 1956. Bangalore, India, Bangalore Press, 1957. 289 p. n. p. Reports from YMCA movements in 13 Eastern countries, addresses, discussions, minutes. A fine volume.

246. Yuan, Tung-Li.
China in Western Literature; a Continuation of Cordier's Bibliotheca Sinica. New Haven, Far Eastern Publications, Yale University, 1958. 802 p. $15.00 A monumental undertaking, successfully completed. Over ten thousand titles are included, by Chinese authors as well as those of other countries. Missionary and Christian literature well represented.

247. Zabilka, Gladys.
Customs and Culture of Okinawa (Revised Edition). Rutland, Vt., Charles E. Tuttle, 1959. 200 p. $2.75 An enchanting guide book on all aspects of Okinawan life. One chapter is devoted to Protestant and Roman Catholic Churches on the island. The author is American director of the Native Cultural program.

See also: 15, 277, 301.

K. PACIFIC ISLANDS

248. Fugmann, Wilhelm.
Junge Kirche unterwegs; Erlebnisse aus Neuguinea. Neuendettelsau, Freimund-Verlag, 1959. 48 p. DM 1

-------. ter
Mitiva/und Geldmütter; Relebnisse aus Neuguinea. Neuendettelsau, Freimund-Verlag, 1959. 64 p. DM 1.50

------.
Volk zwischen Gestern und Morgen. Neuendettelsau, Freimund-Verlag, 1959. 43 p. DM 1

Keysser, Christian.
Der Steinzeitbauer; ein Bericht, wie der heidnische Papua sein Feld bestellt. Neuendettelsau, Freimund-Verlag, n. d. 23 p. DM .50
Pamphlets about the experiences of German missionaries in New Guinea and the growth of the Church there.

249. Keesing, Felix M.
Field Guide to Oceania. (Field Guide Series No. 1) Washington, D. C., National Academy of Sciences, 1959. 51 p. Provides essential information for the anthropological field workers in this region, well classified by subjects. An appendix contains a useful list of missionary societies.

250. O'Reilly, Patrick.
Bibliographie Méthodique, Analytique et Critique des Nouvelles-Hébrides. (Publications de la Société des Océanistes, No. 8) Paris, Musée de l'Homme, 1958. 304 p. $17.50 A methodical and critical bibliography of over 300 publications on all aspects of knowledge about the New Hebrides: voyages, geography, history, ethnology, literature. Protestant and Catholic missions are included.

See also: 10, 11, 28, 68, 85, 310.

L. AUSTRALIA AND NEW ZEALAND

M. GENERAL

VII. CHRISTIANITY AND NON-CHRISTIAN RELIGIONS; OTHER IDEOLOGIES

A. RELIGIONS OF PRIMITIVE PEOPLES

251. Metraux, Alfred.
Voodoo in Haiti. Tr. by Hugo Charteris. London, Andre Deutsch, 1959. 400 p. 30/ Anthropological study of Voodoo in Haiti, described as a conglomeration of African beliefs and rites with Catholic practice. A balanced and informative work on the westernized African religion that is condemned alike by Roman Catholic leaders and Haitian intellectuals.

252. Nida, Eugene and William A. Smalley.
Introducing Animism. N. Y., Friendship Press, 1959. 64 p. The rich scholarship of two Christian anthropologists combined with a lucid and expressive style for general readers make this a fine, brief introduction to animism and all kinds of primitive religion. The last chapter is on "The importance of Christianity."

See also: 112, 313.

B. THE GREAT NON-CHRISTIAN RELIGIONS

253. Bach, Marcus.
Major Religions of the World. N. Y., Abingdon, 1959. 128 p. $1.00 A popular account of eight major religions: Hinduism, Zoroastrianism, Buddhism, Judaism, Confucianism, Taoism, Shinto, Islam, and Christianity. Each brief account is concerned with the spirit of the religion rather than a scientific description of all its features. A helpful glossary precedes each account.

254. Bapat, P. V., ed.
2,500 Years of Buddhism. Delhi, Publications Division, Government of India, 1959. 499 p. $2.00 Written especially for the 2500th anniversary of Buddhism this collection of articles on various periods and phases of Buddhist history and modern revival makes a book of unusual value. The writers are mostly Indian scholars. Bibliography and index.

255. Benz, Ernst.
Über die Schwierigkeit des Verstehens fremder Religionen. Zürich, Rhein-Verlag, 1958. 22 p. Paper on the difficulty of understanding foreign religions.

256. Chang, Chen-chi.
The Practice of Zen. N. Y., Harper, 1959. 199 p. $4.00 An exposition of the Zen school of Mahayana Buddhism which has recently received the attention of many American art colonies and cliques. The author, a Chinese Buddhist scholar, makes liberal quotations from original Zen Buddhist sources and presents abstruse doctrines in a very readable and popular style.

257. Cragg, Kenneth.
Sandals at the Mosque; Christian Presence amid Islam. N. Y., Oxford University Press, 1959. 160 p. $2.75 This beautiful book by an Anglican clergyman and professor of Arabic and Islamics, discusses the relevance of Christianity to Islam. His approach is to demonstrate the value and worth of the Islamic religion and of the places where it shares the ethos of the Christian faith and then to suggest how the cross can fulfill the deeper intent of Islam itself. A word list of Islamic terms and a short bibliography are included.

258. Devanandan, P. D.
The Dravida Kazbagam; a Revolt against Brahminism. Bangalore, Christian Institute for the Study of Religion and Society, 1959. 30 p. A new development in South Hinduism, a revolt against the privileged Brahmin and to some extent against religion itself is thoughtfully analyzed by the Christian scholar Paul Devanandan. He believes that the movement is a challenge to Christianity as well as orthodox Hinduism.

259. ------.
The Gospel and Renascent Hinduism. (I. M. C. Research Pamphlet No. 8) London, SCM Press, 1959. 62 p. 4/- The well-known Christian scholar of India discusses renascent Hinduism, the Hindu attitude to Christianity and the Christian concern in a revived Hinduism. A valuable study in depth of the Hindu-Christian encounter.

260. Fujisawa, Chikao.
Zen and Shinto: The Story of Japanese Philosophy. N. Y., Philosophical Library, 1959. 92 p. $3.75 A modern Japanese scholar interprets and defends neo-Shintoism and Zen Buddhism against Marxism, scientific positivism and orthodox Christianity. Abstruse philosophy and pedantic style.

261. Humphreys, Christmas.
Studies in the Middle Way; Being Thoughts on Buddhism Applied. 3rd ed. N. Y., Macmillan, 1959. 169 p. $3.75 A collection of well-written, stimulating essays on a field of thought which the author says has no name but contains a religion, philosophy, mysticism, psychology, and ethics. Buddhism is considered an important expression of this kind of thought and the title of the book refers to Guatama's doctrine of a way that will resolve the opposites into which Reality seems to be divided. Madame Blavatsky's works are considered the most comprehensive modern expression of the point of view.

262. Marrison, G. E.
The Christian Approach to the Muslim. London, Edinburgh House Press, 1959. 64 p. 2/6 A concise survey of the nature of Islamic religion and how Christian missions can approach it to best advantage. The book is too short to deal with any of the problems profoundly, but it is informative, and a helpful bibliography, chronological chart and glossary are included.

263. Neill, Stephen.
Creative Tension. London, Edinburgh House Press, 1959. 115 p. 10/6 An Anglican bishop and author of numerous books discusses the nature of the relation of Christianity to non-Christian religions and related problems of Christian missionary work. Though he writes popularly, he never over-simplifies, so this study is a real contribution to the contemporary discussion.

264. Ogata, Sohaku.
Zen for the West. N. Y., The Dial Press, 1959. 182 p. $3.75 An interesting exposition of Zen Buddhism by a Japanese Zen monk who is also a professor and has been a Fulbright lecturer in American universities. The author considers Zen as an attitude toward life that is neither theistic, polytheistic, or pantheistic, but which seeks to transcend the subject-object dichotomy of ordinary existence. Two long original Zen texts are included as well as a helpful index.

265. Osborne, Arthur.
Buddhism and Christianity in the light of Hinduism. London, Rider, 1959. 164 p. 15/ The main thesis of the book is that Buddhism and Christianity are complimentary aspects of a single process -- metaphysical revelation in the East and devotional revelation in the West -- that is inherent in Hinduism. "Religions should exist side by side with full, mutual recognition." Heavy reading.

266. Payne, Robert.
The Holy Sword; the Story of Islam from Muhammad to the Present. N. Y., Harper, 1959. 355 p. $6.00 Islamic civilization from the days of Muhammad to the present. The style of presentation is brisk, readable and popular, yet full of facts and interesting, with original interpretations. Maps, sixteen pages of photographs, a glossary, a chronological table, a selective but comprehensive bibliography and an extensive index add greatly to the usefulness of the volume.

267. Pijper, G. F.
Islam and the Netherlands. Leiden, E. J. Brill, 1957. 38 p. 175 Fl. The author believes that Dutch scholarship can contribute much to our understanding of Islam and that Islam has much to give the West from its ideals of brotherhood.

268. Planhol, Xavier de.
The World of Islam (Le Monde Islamique; Essai de Géographie Religieuse). Ithaca, N. Y., Cornell University Press, 1959. 142 p. $2.00 An ecological study of Islam, the geographic and environmental factors in the history and modern life of Muslim peoples. Well translated from the French.

269. Religion and Life. Summer, 1959. Special Issue on "The Mission to America." Vol. XXVIII, No. 3. Nashville, Abingdon Press, 1959. 132 p. $1.00 Symposium of excellent articles on the spread of Hinduism, Islam and Buddhism in the United States, and the Christian answer.

270. Samuel, V. C.
The Ramakrishna Movement; the World Mission of Hinduism. Bangalore, Christian Institute for the Study of Religion and Society, 1959. 35 p. A brief account of a dynamic movement within modern Hinduism, from a Christian viewpoint, appreciative and also critical.

271. Strong, Tracy.
A Pilgrimage into the World of Islam. Geneva, World Alliance of Y.M.C.A.'s, 1959. 143 p. A personal report that "seeks to bring an awareness of the tremendous changes taking place among youth in the countries greatly influenced by Islam." By a veteran YMCA leader whose service to youth and extensive travels have given him a deep and sympathetic understanding of the Islamic world.

272. Suzuki, Daisetz Teitaro.
The Training of the Buddhist Monk. N. Y., University Books, 1959. 161 p. $5.00 The author, a famous exponent of Zen Buddhism, maintains that Zen is primarily a discipline within the larger philosophical structure of Buddhism. In this book, the author is therefore concerned mainly with a detailed description of the life of a Zen initiate. Short appendices largely containing collections of rules are included and the book has 43 plates by the Japanese artist Zenchu Suto.

273. Walmsley, Lewis C.
An Interpretation of China; Seven Radio Talks as Heard on CBC University of the Air. Toronto, Candian Broadcasting Corporation, 1959. 87 p. $1.50
A former missionary of the United Church of Canada revisited China in 1957. In these popular talks he interprets China's history, ancient and modern, and the stupendous changes taking place under communism. He does not believe that the spirit of freedom is entirely crushed.

C. JUDAISM

274. Baeck, Leo.
Judaism and Christianity. Philadelphia, The Jewish Publication Society of America, 1958. 292 p. $4.00 Five brilliant essays by a great Jewish scholar whose personal qualities as exhibited in a Nazi concentration camp disclosed the beauty of nobility and saintliness. The book is decidedly polemical against Christianity which is considered an essentially "romantic" religion compared with Judaism which is essentially "classical." Some essays are historical studies, others philosophical discussions. All present a challenge of great impact against complacent Christian apologetics. The translation is by Professor Walter Kaufmann of Princeton University.

275. Wouk, Herman.
This Is My God. Garden City, N. Y., Doubleday, 1959. 356 p. $3.95 A popular account of orthodox Judaism. The author, a well-known novelist, attempts to present the Jewish faith from the viewpoint of a practicing orthodox Jew to Gentiles and Jews who have lost their sense of religious identity. The book contains no original scholarly research, but offers conventional orthodox interpretations of the faith in an extremely witty and readable style.

See also: 78.

D. COMMUNISM

276. Barth, Karl, and Hamel, Johannes.
How to Serve God in a Marxist Land. With an Introductory Essay by Robert McAfee Brown. N. Y., Association Press, 1959. 126 p. $2.50 This little book contains the complete English translation of Barth's "letter to a pastor in the German Democratic Republic," of which excerpts were recently printed in the American Press and interpreted as expressing an anti-American bias. A very short favorable reply to the letter by an East German pastor, Johannes Hamel, is included as well as a longer letter by him on the same subject. A judicious and balanced American reaction is represented in an introductory essay by Robert McAfee Brown.

277. Committee on Un-American Activities, House of Representatives, Eighty-sixth Congress, First Session.
Communist Persecution of Churches in Red China and Northern Korea. Consultation with Five Church Leaders: Rev. Peter Chu Pong, Rev. Shih-Ping Wang, Rev. Tsin-Tsai Liu, Rev. Samuel W. S. Cheng, Mr. Kyung Rai Kim. Washington, GPO, 1959. 35 p. The five church leaders, from outside the China mainland, present exaggerated and lurid testimony containing more opinion than fact.

278. Grindstaff, Hursel H.
Peace by Way of the Cross. N. Y., Exposition Press, 1959. 42 p. $2.50 This little book is really a tract pleading for more Christian missionary activity as a solution to the problems of Communism and the threat of war. The sincerity of the author, a Missouri farmer by profession, is very evident. However, his thought has no complexity and is hardly more than a series of cliches strung together.

279. Strausz-Hupé, Robert; William R. Kintner; James E. Dougherty; Alvin J. Cottrell.
Protracted Conflict. N. Y., Harper, 1959. 203 p. $3.95 A searching, almost frightening exposure of the Communist strategy of "protracted conflict" on all fronts and at all levels, illustrated by many examples in current history. Research sponsored by the Foreign Policy Research Institute at the University of Pittsburgh.

280. The War Against Religion in the USSR--from Lenin to Krushchev. N. Y., American Committee for Liberation, 1959. 20 p. The author, who spent a number of years in Russia shortly after the 1917 revolution, has prepared this pamphlet for guidance of the programming department of the privately owned station Radio Liberty. It documents instances of the anti-religious campaign put on by the Communists, but is too brief to be either profound or comprehensive in treatment.

281. Wilson, Raymond J., Jr. and the Editors of The Shield.
Communism in Five Hours. Cincinnati, Catholic Students' Mission Crusade, 1958. 86 p. $.50 This book offers material from a Roman Catholic viewpoint to be used in a five hour class on Communism. The first four chapters outline the nature of Communist doctrine and the present state of the party. The fifth chapter consists of excerpts from Senate Document No. 117 on the subject, and a final chapter suggests counter-measures against Communism.

282. Winance, Eleutherius.
The Communist Persuasion; a Personal Experience of Brainwashing. N. Y., P. J. Kenedy & Sons, 1958. 239 p. $3.95 The author, a Benedictine Monk and college professor, gives an autobiographical account of his experiences in China during the rise of the communist government. The description of his arrest and eventual expulsion from China give opportunity for an analysis of "brainwashing." The final chapter, "Tragic Situation of Chinese Catholics."

See also: 125, 127, 209, 213, 214, 225, 228, 239, 243, 244.

E. GENERAL AND OTHER RELIGIONS

283. Holzman, Donald, with Motoyama Yukihiko and others.
Japanese Religion and Philosophy: a Guide to Japanese Reference and Research Materials. Ann Arbor, The University of Michigan Press, 1959. 102 p. $4.00 Nearly a thousand entries, carefully selected as the useful Japanese books for researchers in the history of religions -- Shintoism, Buddhism, Confucianism, philosophic and ethical movements, Christianity (50 items), new sects. Excellent brief annotations.

284. Nivison, David S. and Wright, Arthur F., ed.
Confucianism in Action. Stanford, Stanford University Press, 1959. 390 p. $8.50 Twelve papers by first-rate scholars in Chinese history and thought, dealing with various aspects of neo-Confucianism from the late T'ang Dynasty, and its relation to state power, in China and Japan. What began as a ferment of ideas ended as a government bureaucracy. An illuminating exposition of Confucian influence on Far Eastern history.

285. Vos, Howard F., ed.
Religions in a Changing World. Chicago, Moody Press, 1959. 441 p. $5.50 A symposium on world religions sponsored by a conservative Bible institute. The standard for contributors was that they be believers in Christ, and have personal experience and academic knowledge of the religion of which they write. As a result, a majority of the contributors are missionaries, and the subject is approached not from a comparative anthropological view, but as a practical missionary concern.

286. Zaehner, R. C., ed.
The Concise Encyclopedia of Living Faiths. N. Y., Hawthorn Books, 1959. 431 p. $12.95 Well-written articles by distinguished British scholars; a finely printed and valuable reference book on the living faiths of mankind.

See also: 175.

VIII. SOCIAL AND POLITICAL SCIENCE

287. Bibby, Cyril.
Race, Prejudice and Education. London, William Heinemann, 1959. 90 p. 7/6 A short, well-informed study of prejudice, commissioned by UNESCO. The author writes in a clear non-technical style. He is concerned chiefly with the pedagogical methods most likely to convey adequately the true facts about the nature of race. A helpful bibliography is included.

288. Graham, Robert A.
Vatican Diplomacy; a Study of Church and State on the International Plane. Princeton, N. J., Princeton University Press, 1959. 442 p. $7.50 The author, a Roman Catholic priest and associate editor of America, presents a thoughtful analysis of the place of the Vatican within the complex political relationship between the nations. He traces the role of the Vatican's diplomatic missions from the fifteenth century to the present, but he is more concerned with the political and juristic aspects of his subject. He concludes that the juristic validity of the existence of the Vatican See is found more in its "spiritual sovereignty."

289. Haselden, Kyle.
The Racial Problem in Christian Perspective. N. Y., Harper & Brothers, 1959. 222 p. $3.50 A well-informed and careful examination by a Baptist minister in West Virginia of the problem of race from a Christian perspective. The author's argument is literate and compassionate. He is concerned with the integration of races in the churches and in society whereby "spiritual estrangement" as well as mere physical separation is overcome.

290. Hero, Alfred O.
Americans in World Affairs. Boston, World Peace Foundation, 1959. 164 p. $1.50 Americans of different racial and educational background and socio-economic-occupational status are here studied with reference to their participation in international relations, as measured by the criteria of interest, information, rational analysis and activity. Pertinent and well-executed research, with some revealing conclusions.

291. Hocking, William Ernest.
Strength of Men and Nations; a Message to the USA vis-a-vis the USSR. N. Y., Harper, 1959. 248 p. $3.50 A great contemporary thinker turns his gifts of philosophic discernment and lucidity of exposition toward the exceedingly practical problem of relations between America and Russia. To this problem he shows the relevancy of philosophical concerns in order to reveal the deeper grounds of strength and unity that are yet possible for mankind.

292. Joyce, James Joyce.
Red Cross International and the Strategy of Peace. London, Hodder & Stoughton, 1959. 270 p. 25 s. The inspiring story of the International Red Cross, from its origins in Geneva a century ago to the present day when it consists of over 80 national societies and ministers to war and disaster needs around the world. Over 100 illustrations. Dedicated to "humanity first" and the prevention of war.

293. Kendall, Willmoore and Sibley, Mulford O.
War and the Use of Force; Moral or Immoral, Christian or Unchristian? Denver, The Swallow Press, 1959. 32 p. $1.00 An intelligent and spirited debate between two well-known professors on the Christian attitude to war.

294. Niebuhr, Reinhold.
The Structure of Nations and Empires; a Study of the Recurring Patterns and Problems of the Political Order in Relation to the Unique Problems of the Nuclear Age. N. Y. Scribner's, 1959. 306 p. $5.00 An ambitious, exciting, stimulating book by America's foremost theologian which seeks to find in the history of nations and empires answers to the unique problems of our nuclear age. Dr. Niebuhr criticizes with characteristic penetration the moral ambiguities inherent in American foreign policy, but he does not point to any clear way ahead in the struggle for power between modern nationalisms and imperialisms.

295. Ohm, Thomas.
Asia Looks at Western Christianity. Translated by Irene Marinoff. N. Y., Herder and Herder, 1959. 251 p. $4.75 The author, a Roman Catholic missionary of the Order of St. Benedict, presents a popular but thoughtful survey of Asiatic reactions to Western missionary activities. He concludes that many serious mistakes force Western Christianity to self-criticism but he believes that "European Christianity still has a mission to fulfill in the East." (p. 231)

296. Panikkar, K. M.
The Afro-Asian States and Their Problems. London, George Allen & Unwin, 1959. 104 p. 12/6 Problems of the newly independent states of Asia and Africa -- political structure, administration, economic system, education, science, social reform -- are thoughtfully considered in these lectures by the India Ambassador to France.

297. Sayre, Francis B.
Glad Adventure. N. Y., Macmillan, 1957. 347 p. $6.00 Autobiography of a noted Christian statesman (son-in-law of Woodrow Wilson) and dedicated churchman, whose work and influence have reached around the world. Rich in interesting anecdotes. A fine gift book.

298. Spector, Ivar.
The Soviet Union and the Muslim World 1917-1958. Seattle, University of Washington Press, 1959. 328 p. $5.00 A carefully documented study of Soviet-Muslim relations since 1917, drawing upon original Soviet sources. The book fills a significant gap in our knowledge of Soviet policy and strategy toward the Muslim peoples of Asia and North Africa.

299. Stebbins, Richard P.
The United States in World Affairs 1958. N. Y., Harper, 1959. 479 p. $6.00 Significant international events of 1958 skillfully recorded and analyzed; an indispensable reference volume for students of world affairs and especially American policies.

300. Swift, Richard N.
World Affairs and the College Curriculum. Washington, D. C., American Council on Education, 1959. 194 p. $3.50 The author, professor of government at New York University, urges that colleges take an interdisciplinary approach in teaching about world affairs. The whole range of the curriculum is analyzed from this point of view. Constructive proposals are made.

301. Thompson, Warren S.
Population and Progress in the Far East. Chicago, The University of Chicago Press, 1959. 443 p. $7.50 A thoughtful, detailed analysis of the effect of population changes and increases on the development of Far Eastern countries. The book is a re-writing of the earlier Population and Peace in the Pacific. In the present volume the author stresses more clearly that population changes are intimately and organically related to other social changes in political, economic, and demographic spheres. Comprehensive bibliography and index.

302. U. S. Department of State.
Career Opportunities in the Foreign Service. Washington, D. C., GPO, 1958. 23 p. $.15 Information about the foreign service of the U. S. A. -- opportunities, qualifications, examinations, work and training, pay and promotion, leave and other benefits, etc.

303. United States Senate.
The Right to Travel and United States Passport Policies; Containing Views Expressed by Law School Deans and Professors of Law; a Staff Study Prepared for the Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights of the Committee on the Judiciary, United States Senate. Washington, D. C., GPO, 1958. 357 p. $1.00 The question of U. S. passport policies, discussed by sixty-five deans of law schools and professors of law; published as a staff study for the Senate Judiciary Committee. An enlightening symposium, with a generally liberal point of view.

304. Warburg, James P.
The West in Crisis. Garden City, N. Y., Doubleday, 1959. 192 p. $3.50 A call for wise and courageous leadership and intelligent, responsible citizenship, by a thoughtful commentator on world affairs. The author is a strong advocate of the policy of "disengagement" and makes many concrete, reasonable proposals for peaceful action.

See also: 111, 125, 149, 206.

IX. ANTHROPOLOGY AND RELATED SUBJECTS

305. Bernardi, B.
The Mugwe, a Failing Prophet; a Study of a Religious and Public Dignitary of the Meru of Kenya. N. Y., Oxford University Press, 1959. 211 p. $4.00 The status, position and power of the Mugwe, traditional ritual office among the Meru people of central Kenya, and the decline of authority today due to changing social conditions. Anthropological research by a Roman Catholic missionary.

306. Green Gerald.
The Lotus Eaters. N. Y., Scribner's, 1959. 565 p. $4.95 Best-selling novel about American archaeologists and anthropologists at work among Indians of Latin America, satirizing the selfish and seamy side of "scientific expeditions," written in a style that is vigorous and often coarse.

307. Hogg, Garry.
Cannibalism and Human Sacrifice. London, Robert Hale, 1958. 206 p. 16/- The first comprehensive study of cannibalism in various parts of the world. A horrible chapter in anthropological history; carefully documented.

308. Laski, Vera.
Seeking Life. Vol. 50. Memoirs of the American Folklore Society, 1959. Philadelphia, American Folklore Society, 1958. 176 p. Ancestral lore of the Tewa-speaking Pueblo Indians -- religious ceremonies and dramas, shamananism, and the indefinable spirit of traditional culture which is passing away. An intimate, cultural study.

309. Lessa, William A. and Vogt, Evon Z.
Reader in Comparative Religion; an Anthropological Approach. Evanston, Ill., Row, Peterson, 1958. 598 p. $7.25 Excellent material for anthropological students.

310. McCarthy, Frederick D.
Australia's Aborigines; Their Life and Culture. Melbourne, Colorgravure Publications, 1957. 200 p. £5/5/- The most complete survey yet made of anthropological research upon the tribal organization, customs, livelihood, religion, arts and culture of Australian aborigines. Handsomely printed, with nearly two hundred photographs, in color and black-and-white.

311. Reyburn, William D.
The Toba Indians of the Argentine Chaco: an Interpretive Report. Elkhart, Ind., Mennonite Board of Missions & Charities, 1959. 84 p. Economic and anthropological study of the present-day Toba Indians in the central area of the Argentine Chaco, with two chapters on missionary work and Toba Christianity. An excellent booklet by a North American Mennonite Missionary who believes that the place of the missionary today is "brother-at-large."

312. Southall, Aidan W.
Alur Society: a Study of Processes and Types of Domination. Cambridge, W. Heffer & Sons, 1953. 397 p. 30/- The Alur, a backward tribe straddling the northwest border of Uganda and the Belgian Congo, make up what the author calls a "segmentary state." Description of the clan system, ancestor worship, power of chiefs and their dominance over other ethnic groups, and reactions to two colonial powers.

313. Weyer, Edward, Jr.
Primitive Peoples Today. Garden City, N. Y., Doubleday, 1959. 288 p. $10.00 Extraordinarily fine collection of more than two hundred photographs, many in full color, showing the life of primitive man in fourteen important tribes around the world. Full and informative text that is scientifically accurate and also intelligible to the general reader.

314. Winter, Edward H.
Bwamba: A Structural-Functional Analysis of a Patrilineal Society. Cambridge, W. Heffer & Sons, 1956. 264 p. 30/- Social structure and systems of belief (including sorcery) of the Amba, a primitive people of mountainous west Uganda, especially inter-lineage alliances and warfare. Skillful anthropological investigation.

See also: 115, 252.

X. THEOLOGICAL, WORSHIP AND DEVOTIONAL

315. Brumback, Carl.
"What Meaneth This?" Springfield, Mo., The Gospel Publishing House, 1947. 348 p. $2.00 The author defends a fundamentalist-Pentecostal interpretation of the meaning of the glossolalia and their significance for modern church life. Within the author's presuppositions, it can be said he presents a very interesting, sanely written discussion of the pertinent scriptural passages, though the insights of modern scholarship are only briefly referred to for purpose of refutation.

316. Bull, Geoffrey T.
God Holds the Key. London, Hodder & Stoughton, 1959. 254 p. 12/6 Meditations during three years (1950-1953) in Chinese Communist prisons, written after his release, by the author of When Iron Gates Yield. Record of unconquerable faith through a harsh and painful experience.

317. Clasper, Paul D.
The New Life in Christ; an Introduction to the Theology of St. Paul. Rangoon, Burma Baptist Convention, 1959. 81 p. Dr. Clasper, a scholarly young Baptist missionary and theological professor in Burma uses simple language to express the theology of St. Paul, using thought forms and literary terms that are familiar to Burman Christians.

318. Davies, Horton.
A Mirror of the Ministry in Modern Novels. N. Y., Oxford University Press, 1959. 211 p. $3.75 A fascinating literary study by a professor at Princeton University discussing fifteen novels in which clergymen, either Catholic or Protestant, are the leading characters. A valuable contribution to literary studies and also to an understanding of the meaning of the ministry. A few references to missionaries.

XI. PUBLICATIONS OF THE MISSIONARY RESEARCH LIBRARY

July - December, 1959

Occasional Bulletin. Published ten to fourteen times a year at the nominal subscription rate of $1.00 for the calendar year. No additional charge for postage, domestic or foreign.

Vol. X

No. 6. Religious Liberty - Church and State. With Select List of Books. By M. Searle Bates. 19 p $.15

No. 7. Missions and Imperialism - "Missionary Effort," By Donald A. Lowrie. 6 p. $.15 With reading list.

No. 8. Missionary Broadcasting and Audio-Visual Work. By Beverly J. Chain, RAVEMCCO; Foreword by Frank W. Price. 21 p. $.25

No. 9. The Education of Missionaries' Children. By Clara E. Orr. 11 p. $.15 With bibliography.

No. 10. List of Theses in Foreign Missions and Related Subjects Accepted During the Academic Year 1958-59. Compiled by Laura Person. 13 p. $.15

Book Notes. Issued monthly. Free to subscribers of the Occasional Bulletin or sent upon request.

July.	"Africa Disturbed."
August.	Countries and Peoples.
September-October.	History of Missions and Churches.
November.	East Asia.
December.	Winter Miscellany.

Selected List of Current Books and Pamphlets, January-June, 1959. $.50

Africa South of the Sahara; A Selected and Annotated Bibliography of Books in the Missionary Research Library on Africa and African Countries South of the Sahara. Compiled by Robert L. Lehman, edited by Frank W. Price. 65 p. $1.50

A Directory of Schools Overseas Available for the Children of North American Missionaries. Compiled by Clara E. Orr. 51 p. $1.50

GTU Library
3 2400 00645 5616